Man's sister/caretaker jailed for 'abuse of a vulnerable adult'

With temperatures in the 90s in recent weeks and – for the past several days – the heat index in excess of 100 degrees, a vulnerable Shoreline Park adult has been living in a trailer with no electricity, no running water and no sewer services.

Hancock County Sheriff Steve Garber said his office received information on July from concerned neighbors who were worried about the welfare of the man. "Then our Investigator Matt Barnett said Friday that the sheriff's department was joined in the case by the Mississippi Department of Human Services and the state Attorney General.

Stennis rocket test helps put space program back on track

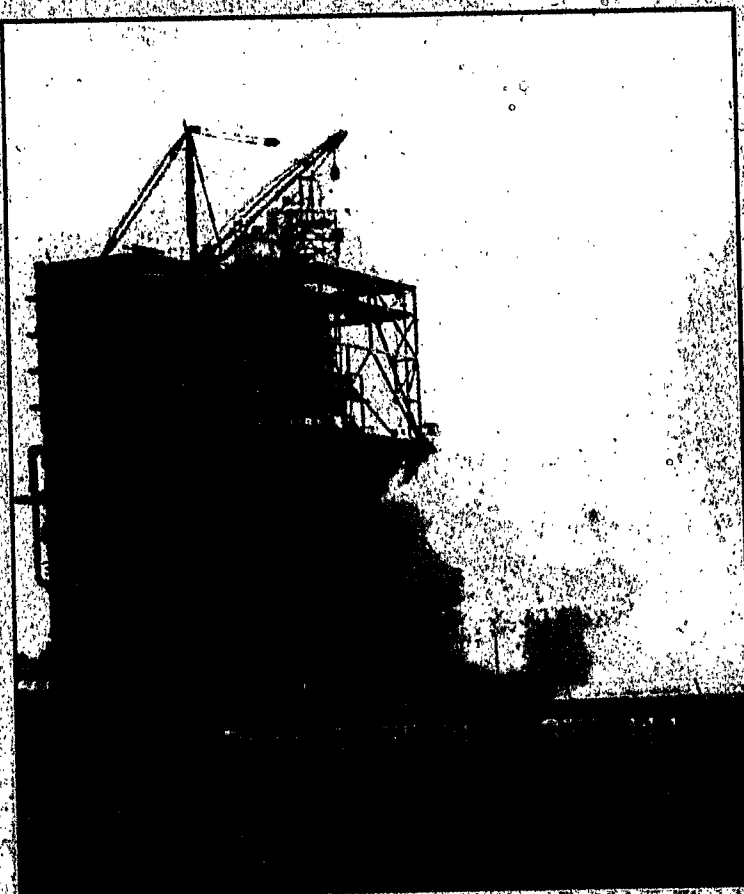

Admiral Tom Donaldson, director of Stennis Space Center, left; David Throckmorton, Stennis deputy director; and Miguel Rodriguez, director of propulsion test directorate, stand by as the first of three main engines for the Space Shuttle Discovery completes a successful test firing.

Since the Columbia Space Shuttle crashed on Feb. 1 2003, NASA has not launched another space flight.

Thanks to the efforts of NASA's "Return to Flight" project, that is about to change.

On Friday, engineers at Stennis Space Center successfully tested the first of three space shuttle main engines slated to power the Space Shuttle Discovery, which will launch in the spring of 2005, sometime between March 6 and April 18.

Stabbing lands one in jail, one in hospital

Shoreline Park man treated at HMC after aggravated assault

A Shoreline Park resident was arrested Friday morning in connection with a stabbing following a fight, Sheriff Steve Garber said last week.

"Justin Delle, 25, Shoreline Park, was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, in addition to a simple assault domestic charge," Investigator André Fizer said Friday.

"Apparently there was a domestic assault that led to a fight (at Pleasure St. on Tuesday). The victim, Michael Schmitz, of Lakeshore, was stabbed in his butt area, groin area and an arm. He was taken to Hancock Medical Center, treated and released."

Indications are that the victim and suspect vaguely knew each other, Fizer said. A pocket knife was the weapon

Waveland Bd. of Aldermen race heats up

As of Friday, four candidates have filed applications to begin qualifying for an upcoming special election in Waveland. Applicants will be vying for a position as Ward 1 alderman that was vacated at the end of June when Keith Mitchell handed in his resignation. Mitchell resigned the post due to conflicts with his job, he said at the time.

So far, two of the four applicants — Mickey Lagasse and Mark Thomas —

Hancock School Board decides to leave new standardized dress code in place

Kopf worried about 'discipline problems' the code might create

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

The Hancock County School Board on Thursday discussed withdrawing from special education programs with Picayune, as well as clarifying its new standardized dress code.

Ed Danzey, assistant superintendent, said that the Hancock County district would have to pay an additional $21,000 for four slots in Picayune's special education program.

Superintendent David Kopf said that the district is in a consortium with Pearl River and Picayune school districts, which allows each of the districts to utilize the other's resources and facilities.

Kopf said that in the past, the spaces were rarely used by Hancock County. "The increase was substantial enough that we asked to pull out of that particular program," Kopf said.

Usually, the deadline for withdrawing from one of these programs is in January. However, the deadline for budget additions is in March, and Picayune did not announce the change until recently.

Peggy Ladner, school

board president, said Picayune should have let Hancock County know of these delays.

"They're asking for something after the fact, and we're asking for something after the fact because of it," Ladner said.

The board will ask the Picayune school board to release the district from this program at its next meeting.

In other business, the board discussed its policy on allowing students to opt out of the new standardized dress code. According to Supreme Court opinions presented by the board's attorney, any student who has ever participated in a sport or club that has required a uniform — such as the Boy Scouts, or an athletic team — cannot opt out.

"If they want to opt out because they say it infringes on their constitutional rights, I'm not voting for it," Ladner said.

Students who object to the uniform on religious grounds can only wear their religious garb.

Kopf said he was concerned about discipline problems arising from the new dress code.

"Based upon the information I have thus far, it's going to be the children we've never had problems with."

Board Member Morgan Ladner said that many parents of younger children also objected to the dress code, and said they would not adhere to it.

"They're trying to make a point," he said. "Unfortunately, they're using a five or six year old to do it."

A copy of the district's dress code can be found on page 8A of today's Echo.

Two Waveland residents arrested for drugs

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

Agents of the Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force arrested Waveland residents Timothy Haney and Michelle Crowe and charged them with several felony narcotic violations, according to Waveland Chief Jimmy Varnell and Bay Chief Frank McNeil.

Haney was charged with sale of hydrocodone and sale of xanax. Crowe was also charged with the sale of hydrocodone and sale of xanax. Crowe was also charged with possession of methadone. A large amount of other prescription pain killers were seized by narcotics agents, including carisoprodol, alprazolam, xanax and lorcet, the police chiefs report said.

Timothy Haney

Haney and Crowe were arrested on Thursday, as agents set up and undercover "buy bust" at a local Waveland motel. Both were taken into custody in a motel room after the transaction took place. Both were transported to the county jail, the chiefs reported.

Haney is being held without bond, as he was out on bond from a previous sale of a controlled substance violation, a sale of marijuana to undercover agents of the Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force. A $15,000 bond was placed on Crowe, according to the report.

The Task Force is also in the process of seizing vehicle due to the fact that it was allegedly used to transport the illegal narcotics, Varnell and McNeil said.

The operation was a joint effort by the Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force, DEA and Waveland Police Departments. Detective Ian Estorff of the Bay-Waveland Narcotics Task Force is handling the investigation.

To make a complaint, or offer a tip about possible drug activities, call the Narcotics Task Force at 467-5683.

Hancock man faces crystal meth charges

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

A Hancock County resident faces charges of manufacturing and possession of crystal methamphetamine (crystal meth), according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

"Martin (Marty) Comfort, 42, Kiln-Picayune Road, Hancock County, was arrested in connection with the possession of and manufacture of crystal meth Wednesday night," Sheriff's Narcotics Division Director Major Matt Karl, said Thursday.

The sheriff's department passed word to the Narcotics division it received as a 'tip' that crystal meth was being manufactured in Comfort's mobile home on the Kiln-Picayune Road, Karl said.

"We visited the residence and no one was at home. We noted a slight chemical smell coming from the trailer and also noticed about the area several empty precursor containers. Along with the tip received and information we gathered, we were able to secure a search warrant for the building," Karl said.

"Upon returning with the search warrant, no one was at home, but we noticed more precursor items inside, in addition to finding some crystal meth. Later that night, Comfort was arrested at another residence by Deputy Doug Ladner and transported to the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility where he was lodged in lieu of a $100,000 bond."

Karl said that the Narcotics Division Agents were assisted by Deputy Charles LaFontaine, Hancock Emergency Management Agency Director Brian Adam, and State Fire Marshall David Dry in their visit to the residence with the search warrant.

Karl is in charge of the case. Agents Chris Russell, Johnny Alison and Clifton (Bubba) Malley, in addition to other deputies assisted in making the case.

Planning & Zoning okays casino special use district at Bayou Caddy

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Hancock County Planning and Zoning Commissioners approved a request Thursday from Cure Land Company LLC for an amendment to the County Zoning map which will provide for a 30 plus acre Casino Special Use District at Bayou Caddy.

At Tuesday's meeting, James Chilimigras told the board that the legal description of the property to be included in the district included 10 acres of his property along Beach Blvd. After careful examination, Commissioners determined that all the property included in the special use district was located south of Lowery Ave. and the Chilimigras property was located north of Lowery Ave.

Commissioners approved the district with added wording that they said would make it clear that the Chilimigras property was not included in the zoning change.

In other business:
• The permit office will submit a $188,728 operating, and a $12,500 capital outlay 2005 fiscal year budget to Supervisors for approval. The budget includes a request for a pay raise for building official Mickey Lagasse and for permission to hire a part-time office employee. Commissioners say they have recommended the raise because of added responsibilities in Lagasse's job description.

Commissioners reported that 2004 was the only year in the history of the office that it has been totally self-sufficient, with 100 percent of the annual budget being returned to the county through the collection of permit fees and other charges.

Tracey and David Necaise appeared to appeal a decision on a mobile home park on Henry Shubert Rd. The Necaises said they have been trying to put a stop to the development for years and were under the impression that an appeal they made to the Board of Supervisors had put an end to the project.

Their appeal fee was returned, signaling a decision in their favor, said Tracey Necaise. Usually, when an appeal is decided in the favor of those filing, the appeal fee is returned.

Now, the Necaises say, they found that the mobile home park is going forward and that site plans have been approved by the Planning and Zoning Board for 10 mobile home sites, a change from the originally proposed 24 sites.

Board attorney John Scafide said he was not sure that the Commission had any jurisdiction over an appeal.

When the original site was approved for the park, use of the property for a mobile home park was by right, Scafide said. So even though delays have held up construction, that right still stands, he said.

The permit office has no record of an overturning of that right or of a ruling against the park by the Board of Supervisors, said Commissioner Lynn Bell. She suggested that the matter be tabled to give the Necaise's time to check Supervisors records of their ruling on the appeal.

Commissioners approved a conditional use permit to allow exploration for oil and gas on property in the Buffer Zone and in an area between Rotten Bayou and the Jourdan River, one and one quarter miles south of the Kiln DeLisle Rd., pending submittal of a permit from the State Oil and Gas Board for the wells.

Commissioners approved a 32.5 acre subdivision on the south side of Hwy. 90., pending health department approval of a waste disposal system. Lots will range in size from 4.8 to 22.6 acres.

The World Series, Bay St. Louis -style

In less than two weeks we will be seeing many vehicles with out-of-state tags, some with slogans about being champs from a particular state.

They will be in town for the Tim Neely Dixie Angels Softball World Series.

This special World Series will take place from July 30 - August 5, sponsored by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and Hancock County.

Many of you may remember last year when the Dixie Pony Tails World Series was held here and brought lots of folks to our community.

The Dixie Angels will bring in teams from 11 states. In addition, a Bay St. Louis team of 9 and 10-year-old girls will compete.

The games are to be played at the Bay St. Louis Sports Complex off Athletic Drive.

Opening ceremonies will be held on Friday, July 30 at the Sports Complex with a Mardi Gras parade for the athletes.

Then the visitors will enjoy a Southern Hospitality Dinner at the Bay St. Louis Sports Complex.

On Saturday evening, August 1, there will be an "Angels Beach Party." I know our visitors had a great time last year for the beach party and I am sure the same will occur this year.

Lonnie Falgout of Bay St. Louis, the tournament chairman, said Dixie League officials indicate there will be at least 1,800 visitors in our community for the week-long tournament.

In order for the community to sponsor such an event, there is a need for many volunteers to do all types of jobs.

If you are interested, give Falgout a call at 228-216-0133, or Bay St. Louis City Hall, 467-9092. I understand they can still use several more helpers.

All indicators give a great plus sign for the Boys & Girls Club's summer program which is taking place at the Second Street Elementary School.

As many of you know, the Hancock County Chapter of the Boys & Girls Club of the Gulf Coast started in January with an after-school program.

This too, was a tremendous success.

Just think, there are some 297 members with a daily attendance average of 225 youngsters ages five to 15.

Still, there are many others in the county in that age group which could benefit from such a program.

Funding is always a problem, but with more support from business, industry, government, and the public, many more children can be reached.

Whenever a Boys & Girls Club fund raiser event is held, you can help by participating.

Opposing Homosexual Marriage

The Senate has failed to pass legislation calling for a Constitutional amendment to protect traditional marriage and halt the proliferation of same-sex marriages. Despite the current setback, I believe debate on this issue has only just begun, and the topic is bound to fester until Congress assumes its responsibility and deals with it decisively.

Since the dawn of recorded history, marriage has been a loving commitment between a man and woman, but now homosexual interest groups and their activist allies seem determined to redefine marriage.

In state after state, they've attacked traditional marriage through the courts, marrying same-sex couples and forcing the issue to a head in Washington.

Like an overwhelming majority of Americans, I believe marriage should remain strictly between men and women. That's why I was an original cosponsor of the Federal Marriage Amendment, which the Senate failed to even consider this week because we didn't have quite enough votes to bring it up for debate.

I was an original cosponsor of the Defense of Marriage Act, too. This law was signed by President Clinton a few years ago with bipartisan support.

Back then, a majority in Congress and throughout America felt this law would protect traditional marriage. Unfortunately, the act is not working.

Liberal judges are disregarding this act, sanctioning same-sex marriages despite the law and overwhelming public opposition - even in places with state laws designed to protect traditional marriage. The situation is creating perplexing legal questions among states, and it begs for significant action.

From Washington, A Constitutional amendment is the only way to restrain activist judges. These few now seek to make law instead of interpreting law as written by your elected representatives in Congress - the way our Founding Fathers intended.

Obviously the issue of same-sex marriage transcends the legal debate. This is a subject very important to millions of Americans, and it impacts our entire social fabric. Marriage is the building block of families. Only men and women together can produce children. Children, in turn, need a mother and a father. That's not to say kids can't grow up well in single parent homes, but traditional marriage has always been, and always must be, the ideal environment for raising families.

Some of my colleagues in the Senate say a Constitutional amendment is too drastic. They agree with the majority of Americans who oppose same-sex marriage, but say

Letters to the Editor

Religion is private, and should remain so

I have recently received a great deal of e-mail bemoaning the fact that our courts have prevented government (at various levels) from becoming involved in religion. Without commenting on the constitutionality of the issue, I believe that government should not intrude on the religious beliefs and practices of its citizens.

Without religious freedom there is no religion; merely a mechanical recitation of dogma and/or ritual. Those who seem to believe otherwise apparently believe that the religious practices encouraged will be those they approve. Not necessarily so. Most Protestants would not approve of Roman Catholic Doctrine being encouraged by government; and vice versa. Hardly no one of any association would approve of our children being encouraged to handle poisonous snakes as a demonstration of their faith.

The countries of the near east are for the most part theocracies. That is not the type of world that I wish to live in, or have my children and grand children live in. I doubt that it is a world that most of us would be comfortable with.

I do not wish a secular society. Indeed, religion is now, has been, and probably always will be, essential to the spiritual and social well being of a people.

By all means practice your faith, whatever it may be. But do so in the privacy of your heart, your home and the church of your choice.

Do not seek to impose your faith on others through the offices of government.

Death in Mississippi

I was under the impression that the main responsibility for the Governor of Mississippi's apparent lack of knowledge of the 65,000 poor, elderly and disabled people of Mississippi, who are the most vulnerable citizens of our state, was his failure to announce his plan to implement the state's plan to gradually phase his plan in until death in the streets in the state's Medicaid reform. The death of a citizen, many places to implement the plan, who did not gradually phase his plan in until death in the streets in the state's Medicaid reform. Walker earns 'Treasury Guardian' title

Opinions on my part are not shared by the Treasury Guardian designation by the Taxpayers for Common Sense Action (www.taxpay-exist). This non partisan budget watch-dog group issued its 2003 Common Sense Taxpayer Scorecard which ranks each member of Congress based on their promotion of fiscal responsibility and their votes against wasteful spending. Those members designated 'Treasury Guardians' are ranked in the top 10 percent of their chamber.

I was glad to see that my ranking was tied for the fourth highest score. Two votes that counted against my ranking being higher were my votes against the Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Commission and my vote for the Water Resources Development Act (WRDA). As we all know, BRAC is a threat to our national security. Closing bases and consolidating military force and assets, is a dangerous policy with no fiscal benefit. I was proud to cast my vote to delay the next round of closings, although I would prefer to have the commission dissolved completely.

The Water Resources Development Act authorizes important Corps of Engineer projects around the country. The hard work and expertise of the Corps of Engineers is certainly evident around South Mississippi. Perhaps the best example of their handiwork can be found at the marsh restoration project at Deer Island. The Corps is using dredge material to restore 30 acres of marsh the island has lost over the years. This is the first time federal money has been used in Mississippi for marsh restoration. I feel the Corps of Engineers performs many necessary functions for communities, cities, and states and I am happy to support their efforts.

Though the Taxpayers for Common Sense did not agree with me on BRAC and WRDA, I was still able to break the top five for votes against wasteful spending. I am honored to receive this recognition, however, I am more pleased to see this organization bringing fiscal responsibility to the forefront of the national debate. Despite our differences on particular votes, we are both concerned about the problems of a growing national debt.

The national debt on July 6, 2004 was over $7 trillion. The President's budget expects the debt to pass $8 trillion in 2005, $9 trillion in 2007, and $10 trillion in 2009. As this debt continues to grow, we create more of a financial burden for America's future workers. Our children and grand children will be forced to deal with this debt, a debt that can only be paid through tax revenue. Ignoring this fiscal responsibility is only deferring greater taxes to future generations.

Borrowing from retirement accounts will land business leaders in jail in the private sector, yet Congress is guilty of the same offense with impunity each year. The use of government trust fund surpluses to cover up further deficit spending paints a false picture. For instance, in fiscal year 2003 the Treasury reported a $374 billion budget deficit. That number excludes the Social Security, Medicare, military retirement, and federal employee retirement trust fund $210 billion surplus that is now IOU's because the government borrowed from these accounts to cover excess spending. In an op-ed to the New York Times on February 4, 2004, David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States stated:

"The federal government's gross debt was about $7 trillion last September, which works out to about $24,000 for every man, woman, and child in this country. But that number excludes items like the gap between the government's Social Security and Medicare commitments and the money put aside to pay for them. If these items are factored in, the burden for every American rises to well over $100,000."

In addition, we spend almost $1 billion a day on interest on the national debt. In 2003 interest spending was $318 billion, the third largest expense behind Social Security benefits ($475 billion) and military spending ($389 billion). I think most Americans would be shocked to know that our nation owes over $1.7 trillion to foreign creditors, including $646 billion to Japan and $152 billion to Communist China. The federal government has borrowed $442 billion from for-ign governments and investors in just the past twelve months.

These facts and the future they indicate worry me and others, as shown by Comptroller General Walker, head of the General Accounting Office (GAO). The GAO is a non partisan office devoted to crunching numbers to ensure that we get a fair and accurate account of our nation's fiscal status in many areas.

Again, I am glad to see that the Taxpayers for Common Sense Action brought this issue to light. History has shown that nations will fail either militarily or economically. Our military is the strongest in the world and has the power to do many great things for the security of America. It is our nation's fiscal problem that silently grows worse with each year and threatens the economic strength of a country that prides itself on being the land of opportunity. I feel that the pioneering spirit that drives hardworking Americans will persevere. I hope that those in power in our Capitol can see the wisdom in fiscal responsibility and reverse this dangerous trend.

they can't support a Constitutional amendment. That's expected. Constitutional amendments are heavy stuff. Our Founding Fathers meant for Constitutional amendments to be done only after a lot of very serious thought and legislative deliberation. Amending the Constitution takes time, as it should. But it's done more often than we may think. In fact, there are 27 amendments to the Constitution, almost half of those amendments made during the last century. It's clear that protecting traditional marriage does indeed rise to a Constitutional level.

Others in Washington are frankly just trying to have it both ways. They are using parliamentary procedures and technicalities as cover to avoid taking sides, scared they may offend someone. Well, two out of three Americans already have taken a side, that of opposition to same-sex marriage. Like most Mississippians, I'm on this side because of my personal Christian faith - a faith that, like most faiths worldwide, recognizes and encourages traditional marriage.

Many of you have called my office voicing strong support for the Federal Marriage Amendment and stern opposition to same-sex marriage. I thank each of you for your action. I will continue my efforts to protect traditional marriage. I assure you, as much as some folks want this issue to just go away, it will not. Americans overwhelmingly oppose same-sex marriage, and we favor traditional marriage between men and women. The U.S. Congress should reflect America's people, and our courts must respect America's law.

Until this happens, the issue remains unresolved, and it can't remain that way for long.

Word Power

Word blocks, a type of manipulative, are a fun and engaging way to teach kids how to read.

Introducing Reading to Preschoolers: Put Word Power Into Little Hands

Words are magic. Preschoolers learn quickly that printed words offer information and have a mystical power over adults. Children who see their parents reading and writing become better print communicators.

The key to teaching children how to read is exposure. The more young children are exposed to the printed word, the faster they will learn to read and write.

Recent studies have shown that fine motor control develops more slowly than cognitive abilities; therefore, a child may want to write but only be able to scribble. Much like the trend to teach babies sign language before they can learn to speak, offering children manipulatives to learn math and reading has been successful.

Literary manipulatives come in many forms, but are typically many units of plastic or wood, each imprinted with a letter or a word. Such manipulatives eliminate the burden of learning to write in order to communicate.

Parents seeking a literacy manipulative should look for:

- * Something that is not so small it presents a choking hazard for the youngest learners;
- * Something that can be used as just a toy as well as a learning device;

* Something multidimensional, able to grow with the child's ability.

Parents will find that presenting the manipulative and letting the child explore it will result in play and then in questions.

It's natural for the child to stack and sort the toy. If the child is artistically inclined, he will make designs with the colors and patterns. If the manipulative has words on it, for instance, soon the parent can point out the letters and ask leading questions like "How many 't's' do you see?"

This can lead to more leading questions, such as "How many of those 't's' also have an 'h'?" That says "th." It won't be long before the child is making phrases and learning about word placement in a sentence.

As the toddler progresses through childhood, he will learn to sort the word manipulatives first by colors, then by letters, then by sounds, and eventually by parts of speech.

Parents or children can make up serious or silly phrases simply by standing different colored blocks next to each other. Soon kids learn about word order and sentence construction.

Exposing the child to literacy-related toys in a no-pressure environment and modeling play/learn techniques with the toys will predispose the child to academic success.

Teach Your Kids About School-Bus Safety

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Even though school bus transportation is safer for kids than car rides, in 1999 approximately 26 students were killed and another 9,000 were injured during accidents involving school buses, reports the National Safety Council (NSC).

And more often than not, these deaths and injuries didn't occur in a crash, but as the pupils were entering and exiting the bus, according to the NSC.

There are 10 basic bus-safety rules that parents should review with their kids so they can learn how to stay safe when riding to and from school, courtesy of the National PTAR, a not-for-profit child advocacy organization.

1. Be on time
2. Never run to or from the bus.

3. Stand back from the curb.

4. Don't push or shove.

5. Stay in your seat.

6. Don't yell or shout.

7. Always obey the driver.

8. Wait for the driver's signal before crossing.

9. Always cross at least 10 feet in front of the bus.

10. Never crawl under a school bus.

Drug use trends among students across the nation

"Where there is a will there is a way" is a common line of thinking, usually applied to setting positive goals. However, it seems the same advice is being followed by students to get high — faster and with more readily accessible drugs than the past. Here is a look at a few substances that students may be abusing in your neighborhood.

Marijuana — This substance remains the most popular drug choice for many students. It is easily available, relatively inexpensive and today's batches contain a higher level of delta9-tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), resulting in a greater "high." Marijuana induces impaired motor skills and the inability to make sound judgments. This may result in driving accidents or sexual promiscuity.

Over-the-counter (OTC) medications — These easily accessible drugs, like cold pills and cough syrup, are a growing trend among middle school students. Because they are very inexpensive, often costing an average of $5 each, and legal, they are popular among the younger set, who may not have convenient access to illegal drugs. Kids often refer to taking cold pills as "skittling" because Coricidin HBP, a popular cold medication, resembles Skittles(R) candy.

Students who take these medications greatly exceed the recommended dosage so they can experience hallucinations and other euphoric feelings. Apart from being cheap, kids say these OTC drugs are hard for adults to detect because they don't produce an aroma on their breath like alcohol or dilate their pupils like many other drugs do. And because they are legal, there are no penalties for possessing them.

Many pharmacies are voluntarily moving products like Coricidin HBP off their shelves and putting them behind their prescription counters to discourage abuse by students.

Crystal Meth — Crystal and crystal meth are common street names for methamphetamine, the most hyper-charged member of the amphetamine drug family. Widely used in the 1960s and early '70s for its intense effects, crystal virtually disappeared in the mid-'70s, but has resurfaced on a large scale in recent years, particularly in the Midwest regions of the United States and in other rural areas.

At low doses, crystal boosts alertness and blocks hunger and fatigue. At higher doses, it causes exhilaration and euphoria.

At very high doses, the drug can cause agitation, paranoia and bizarre behavior.

Substances like cold medications are easily accessible drugs that many students abuse to get high.

Because this drug can be "cooked" in makeshift labs with a few basic ingredients, possession is convenient for many students. Illegal forms of the drug often have a strong ammonia smell, due to the solvents used during manufacturing.

Ecstasy — One of the most popular club drugs, Ecstasy, scientifically known as MDMA, is a synthetic, psychoactive drug chemically similar to the stimulant methamphetamine and the hallucinogen mescaline.

While many students believe that ecstasy is harmless, there have been deaths related to its consumption. Because its purity is always in question, there may be hidden poisons in the pill.

The best way to discourage children from using drugs is to be aware of what's happening in their lives. Know whom they are spending time with, observe their behavior patterns and ask questions. You may be helping them stay away from these substances or potentially saving their lives.

Award program offers extracurricular activity

BY BONNIE COBLENTZ
MSU Ag Communications

College-bound students know that extracurricular activity looks good on college entrance and scholarship applications, and there is an award program that can help them kill two birds with one stone.

The Congressional Award program was established by the U.S. Congress in 1979 to encourage young people in leadership and personal development. The Mississippi State University Extension Service has been involved with the program for 11 years helping state youth reach goals they set for themselves.

Linda Mitchell, interim district Extension director, is a national board member of the Congressional Award program.

She said youth ages 14 to 23 work their way through three progressively more difficult levels of achievement. Personal goals are set in community service, personal development, expedition/exploration and physical fitness.

"Young people who get in the habit of performing community service and constantly improving themselves tend to continue this pattern for the rest of their lives," Mitchell said. The Congressional Award is the highest award the U.S. Congress presents to young Americans. The four-year program gives three medals to youth who meet three different sets of personal goals. After successfully completing the first year, youth receive a bronze medal, then a silver medal after the goals of the second year are met. These are given in state ceremonies in Washington, D.C.

"For young people through age 18, 4-H in Mississippi offers a perfect way to meet the Congressional Award requirements for personal development," Mitchell said. "Many times, we use 4-H agents as validators to certify that the young person has met their goals and is qualified for the award."

For more information on the Congressional Award program, contact the local Extension 4-H agent.

From left, Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Communications Director Tim Reid and Department of Marine Resources (DMR) Executive Director William Walker present Beau Rivage President Jeff Dahl and Beau Rivage Vending and Recreation Manager Doug Gaberty with a Clean Marina flag at a designation ceremony on July 13. Beau Rivage Marina in Biloxi was designated Mississippi's first Clean Marina as part of the Alabama-Mississippi Clean Marina Program. The Clean Marina Program, a cooperative effort of Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, the DMR and other partners, is a voluntary program that encourages marina operators to adopt best management practices for sewage handling, fuel management, solid waste management, vessel cleaning and repair, storm water management, staff training and boater education to help reduce water pollution and erosion in state waterways. An evaluation team visits the marina to determine that the marina has met all necessary requirements to become certified as a Clean Marina. The Alabama-Mississippi program is one of 12 in the nation.

Pearl River names new soccer coach

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Patrick Edward Hayes, an Ocean Springs native, is the new head soccer coach for the men's and women's teams at Pearl River Community College.

Hayes, 33, a 1993 Cum Laude graduate of Ohio State University, comes to Pearl River from Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, where he was the assistant men's and women's soccer coach the last two years.

Hayes, who has been coaching soccer since 1996, graduates this summer from the University of Southern Mississippi with a Masters degree in Sports Administration.

In 2002, Hayes received his National coaching license from the United States Soccer Federation. He was a select team coach in the South Mississippi Soccer Club, a member of the Mississippi Olympic Development soccer staff and head coach in the Mississippi Gulf Coast Men's Soccer League.

Hayes replaces Dr. Adam Breerwood, who stepped down in May to devote full time to his position as Dean of Student Affairs at the two-year college.

Patrick Edward Hayes

Breerwood, a native of Bay St. Louis, was the school's first and only soccer coach. In the five-year existence of the soccer programs at PRCC, Breerwood has guided at least one of his teams into the postseason every year.

The 2003 men's soccer team defeated Hinds last October for PRCC's first-ever MACJC State and Region 23 soccer titles before losing to Tyler (Texas) Junior College in the Mid-Southwest District Tournament.

The 2003 Wildcats finished the season with a 17-3-2 record.

During Breerwood's time as soccer coach, the PRCC men had a 58-21-5 record. The women were 64-21-4. His women's teams at PRCC won South Division titles in 2000, 2002 and 2003. He was named 2003 Men's MACJC State and Region XXXIII Coach of the Year.

MACJC grid champ Pearl River enters fall ranked No. 5 in NJCAA preseason poll

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The defending MACJC state champ Pearl River Wildcats will enter the 2004 season with a No. 5 national ranking after finishing fourth in last year's final NJCAA poll.

PRCC is one of six MACJC teams that attracted the attention of the national community college pollsters with perennial powerhouse Northwest leading the way with a No. 2 preseason ranking. The Wildcats swept the talented Rangers last season, taking a hard-fought 17-7 regular-season victory on the road, then returned to Senatobia to pounce Northwest 31-7 in the opening-round of the MACJC playoffs.

Hinds, which Pearl River defeated 21-17 for its record 17th state championship last November in Raymond, was ranked No. 13 in the 2004 preseason poll, while nearby Jones in Ellisville was 20th.

Mississippi Delta in Moorhead and Southwest in Summit also received votes in the poll.

The Wildcats finished No. 4 in the final NJCAA 2003 poll last fall, while Hinds finished 12th.

PRCC opens its 2004 season with five straight Thursday-night games, including back-to-back non-division home games against Itawamba and East Mississippi on Sept. 2 and Sept. 9, respectively.

Six straight division contests follow against Copiah-Lincoln (Thursday, Sept. 16) in Wesson, East Central (Thursday, Sept. 23) in Poplarville, Hinds (Thursday, Sept. 30) in Raymond, Jones (Saturday, Oct. 9) in Poplarville, Southwest Mississippi (Saturday, Oct. 16) in Summit, and Mississippi Gulf Coast (Thursday, Oct. 21) in Poplarville.

PRCC wraps up the regular season against non-division rival Mississippi Delta Thursday, Oct. 28, in Moorhead. All games will be played at 7 p.m. with the exception of Oct. 9's Homecoming game against Jones which will kick off at 3 p.m. Tim Hatten, a former PRCC wide receiver in the mid-1980s, enters his third season as the Wildcats head coach.

Neglected

Street, Shoreline Park, was arrested Friday afternoon. She has been charged with felonious abuse of a vulnerable adult (and) misdemeanor neglect of a vulnerable adult, in addition to felony exploitation of a vulnerable adult. She was lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility in lieu of a $41,000 bond," Barnett, who is leading the investigation, said.

"The victim was staying by himself in the trailer and apparently received very little food. His sister stored his food in an (unplugged) refrigerator. She had padlocked the refrigerator and would feed him on occasion. There was canned and dry-type foods in the locked refrigerator," Barnett said.

"Paquet received her brother's social security check and was his caretaker," Barnett said. "Apparently, she spent the money on other things than those for her brother."

"The victim used a bucket for his bathroom facilities and it was overflowing. She reported locking up the food because she did not want him to eat it all at one time." A sheriff's dispatcher, who had earlier seen photos of the conditions in the trailer, said "Yes, I have seen photos and no, I don't want to see them again."

The victim had apparently been living in these conditions for about a year, according to Barnett, who said the victim had received a brain injury several years ago in a fight.

Mississippi's law describes a vulnerable adult as one whose ability to perform the normal activities of daily living or to provide for his/her own care or protection is impaired due to a mental, emotional, physical or developmental disabilities or dysfunction, or brain damage or the infirmities of aging.

It is unlawful for any person to abuse, neglect, or exploit any vulnerable adult, according to state law.

All citizens are responsible for reporting abuse of a vulnerable adult. State law says that any person who knows or suspects that a vulnerable adult has been or is being abused, neglected, or exploited, is obligated to report it.

If a person makes a report, investigates or testifies, then he or she is immune from liability, civil or criminal, that might otherwise be incurred or imposed. Intentional false reporting is not protected.

"Road Deputy Tina Ladner has been a tremendous help in this investigation," Barnett said. "Hancock County Chancery Clerk Tim Kellar obtained a court order to remove the victim from the trailer. He has been placed with a temporary caretaker and later will be placed in a permanent residence with a caring caretaker."

"Personally, I would not want an animal to live in the conditions the victim was subjected to."

Gaits to Success fundraiser on Sat.

Gaits to Success, a non-profit organization that serves disabled children through a therapeutic horseback riding program, will hold its annual fundraiser on Saturday, July 24, at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road.

The shrimp Creole dinner, prepared by The Steamer, will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. Gaits to Success is a member of the North American Riding for the Handicapped Association. It operates out of a stable in Kiln which has a fenced,

Based on the concept that by purchasing a STEAK, you are buying a STEAK in a child's future, the "Steak & Stake" Dinner is a celebration held by many Clubs across the country. Funds generated help support the organization's costs associated with operations, programming and outreach services for our 5 Clubs in Harrison and Hancock Counties.

Talented Club Kids will be showcased throughout the evening with performances and Youth Awards. The highlight of the evening will be the announcement of the Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast "Youth of the Year."

The 13th Annual Steak & Stake Dinner is Chaired by Harrison County Supervisor Connie Rockco. Co-Chair for the event is Mickey Parenton, Sr. Vice President of Casino Operations for Grand Casino Biloxi.

Over 500 community leaders, elected officials, business leaders and volunteers as well as 300 Club Members are expected to attend this year's event.

Last year the Clubs had over 3,000 registered members ranging in age from six to eighteen, and served thousands of additional youth through various Outreach Programs in Harrison and Hancock Counties. The Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast, a United Way agency, will directly benefit from all proceeds generated from this event. Funds raised will assist in costs associated with operational, programming and outreach services for the Club's five units and activity center.

If you would like to donate an auction item, purchase a seat, or sponsor a table at one of our sponsorship levels ranging from $500.00 to $5,000.00, please contact 228-374-2330 or visit our website at www.bggcgulfcoast.org where you can also preview the Silent Auction.

MPT awarded defense contract

U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor has announced the U.S. Air Force is modifying its contract with Mississippi Polymer Technologies (MPT), Inc. of Bay St. Louis. The modified contract is in the amount of $6,030,000. MPT receives this contract under the Rigid Polymer Materials program of the Defense Production Act, Title III.

"Congratulations to MPT. The strength of our nation's defense depends heavily on our technological advantage. The military is intrigued by the possibilities MPT's hard work and innovation have brought to light," said Taylor. "The Title III project aids in moving these polymer materials from the research and development stage to limited production and I am glad to see these materials being developed right here in South Mississippi."

The Defense Production Act serves to increase the supply of advanced materials for defense purposes while decreasing dependency on foreign sources for these materials. In doing so, it aims to further strengthen the domestic defense industry and provide the highest quality materials for the U.S. military.

MPT is located at 13233 Webre Road in Bay St. Louis and can be reached at 228-533-0825.

These small, colorful flowers add pizzazz to shady landscapes

These small, colorful flowers add pizzazz to shady landscapes

Southern Gardening

MSU Horticulturist

Every time I give a seminar, someone wants to know what flowers they can plant in the shade. I always answer first with impatiens. The impatiens is related to the old time touch-me-not and originates in East Africa.

When you consider that impatiens bloom from the time you plant them in the spring until the first hard frost, you are talking about an extremely good value for your landscape dollar. What other plant can you name that blooms for an average of 210 days?

You know I usually suggest planting single colors for maximum landscape impact. The new mixes showing up in impatiens, however, are changing my mind. There are some exceptional choices that will turn the shady landscape into a colorful paradise.

Speaking of paradise, that is the name of one of my favorite mixes, the Super Elfin Paradise Mix. It is so tropical-looking with shades of pink, red, rose and lavender.

You also must consider the Cancun Mix of Tempo Impatiens. This one will literally pop out of the shady garden, making everyone take notice. It leans toward shades of orange, apricot and red.

Next to try is the new Salsa Mix of semi-double Fanciful Impatiens.

This mix has similar colors to the Cancun Mix, but the flowers take on a semi-double, or rose-like, form.

There are many more mixes available at garden centers, and even though we are in early summer, impatiens still can be planted for months of dazzling color.

Impatiens of all sorts do best in part shade or full shade in soil that is organic-rich, fertile and well-drained. Not everyone has such wonderful soil, so incorporate 3 to 4 inches of compost or humus to loosen the soil and provide a good home for your new plants.

While working the soil, incorporate a slow-release fertilizer like a 12-6-6 blend with minor nutrients at a rate of 2 pounds per 100 square feet of planting area.

Space them 8 to 12 inches apart, planting at the same depth they are growing in the container.

Keep them watered and fed with light applications of fertilizer every four to six weeks, and by fall you will have a look that may rival the spring azalea bloom. If they should get leggy in mid-summer, don't be afraid to cut them back to as little as 6 to 8 inches. They will respond favorably with new growth and even more blossoms.

Try growing impatiens as understory plantings to bananas and ginger, and use in combination with hostas, coleus and caladiums.

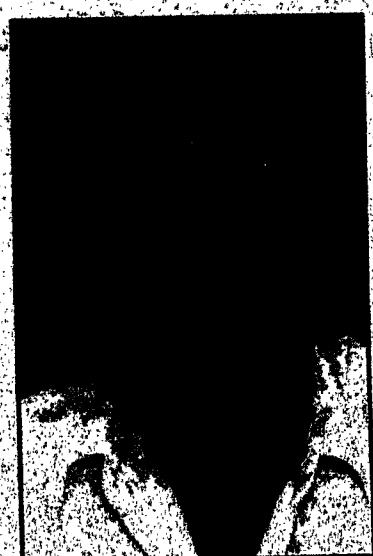

Impatiens come in a variety of heights. Miniature varieties that reach only 10 inches include Firefly, Little Lizzy and Pixie. Accent, Cajun, Dazzler and Super Elfin are all known to approach 15 to 16 inches. Slightly taller are Showstopper and Tempo, which can reach 2 feet.

Those known for patterned flowers are Mosaic, Swirl and Stardust. In addition to the mixes, try the new rose form impatiens like Fiesta, the more compact Fiesta Ole and Toga.

If you've got a shady situation at your house, liven it up with impatiens. It's not too late.

(Author's Note: I write these columns four to five weeks in advance. Those of you who read last week's column and went looking for least terns on our beach should know that the terns left en masse in the middle of the previous week. Today's column, while written a month ago when the tomatoes were coming into their own, is still as timely as it was when written. PEL)

Do you want me to do that?" I glared at Stella. I had gone in the kitchen to fix myself a tomato sandwich. It's that wonderful time of the year when the tomatoes are juicy and ripe, each fruit hanging plump on the vine, patiently waiting for someone to come pluck and eat it.

I love tomatoes all sorts of ways, in salads, in Stella's sauces and red gravies, or raw, bitten into right off the vine with just a pinch of salt. However, to me, one of the best ways to eat a tomato is in a Bunny Bread-Kraft mayonnaise-Stella tomato sandwich.

When Stella asked me her question, I already had the tomato sliced just to the right thickness on the cutting board and two slices of Bunny Bread waiting on a plate for the mayonnaise. When she spoke, I was trying to get the mayonnaise out of the jar. I was having trouble doing this. I was getting angry. Very angry. I didn't want her help!

I know what I just said about tomatoes, but I do love mayonnaise. Stella always buys quart jars of mayonnaise as pint jars go too quickly. Even with this, Stella always has a couple of jars of mayonnaise waiting in reserve in the pantry. Kraft's, Hellmann's or Blue Plate; it doesn't matter; they are all equally as good.

I have no problem with the mayonnaise per se, it's with the neck of the jar that it comes in. It's too narrow! As the jar becomes empty, it becomes more and more difficult to get the mayonnaise out from the side of the jar. What is bad is there is too

Why we need animal companions

Millions of American households include pets. Most are considered a member of the family and we often spend an incredible amount of time, money and effort to care for and cater to their every need. Dogs and cats are by far the most commonly kept

Pet Projects

by Paula L. Smith

pets, although birds, reptiles, fish and other animals of every type imaginable have been admitted to share human habitats. Certainly, the very first animals kept by humans were simply readily access-sible sources of food, or retained for their capacity to work for us.

However, somewhere along the line something else happened in our relationship with animals. We began to keep animals for reasons other than their suitability for work or the dinner table, reasons that at first glance seem to have no purpose or "use."

But one only has to scratch the surface of human nature to realize that "pets" were inevitable. Humans are curious, we are naturally attracted to things novel and unusual and we are status seeking within our social structure. Beautiful, rare, and exotic

Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarship program recipients announced

Sixty-four Mississippi high school seniors will receive a scholarship award of $1,500 annually for up to four years as part of the Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarship Program.

The award, which is named for the longtime West Virginia legislator, is designed to recognize and reward students who demonstrate outstanding academic achievement. The scholarship is not awarded based on financial need.

A number of factors are considered in the selection of "Byrd Scholars," including standardized test scores, grade point average, participation in extracurricular activities, and leadership activities, and honors and awards received.

The national scholarship program is administered through the Mississippi Department of Education's Scholastic Development Office and is open to all high school seniors in public, private, and parochial schools. The requirements for the program were established at the national level.

The Mississippi Department of Education has taken action to ensure that all Mississippi students are made aware of this national scholarship program," said Dr. Tony Webster, Director of Scholastic Development.

After notifying superintendents, principals, headmasters, and counselors, the scholarship program information and the application are posted on the Department's website, along with information about many other scholarships available to Mississippi high school students.

More than 2200 students applied this year, which represents an increase over the 1500 who applied last year.

A very large number of students utilized the website to apply for the Byrd Scholarship Program as well as other scholarship programs," Webster said.

We were extremely pleased with the student's response to this year's program, and would like to thank all the students who applied and wish them continued success in their educational endeavors.

much mayonnaise left to just throw the jar out and so each time you try to get some mayonnaise, a reasonable person such as myself gets angrier and angrier.

Years ago in a burst of enlightenment, some production department person changed the Kraft mayonnaise jar's narrow neck to a wide mouth. Halleluia! All of a sudden, all of the delicious mayonnaise in the Kraft mayonnaise jars was now available to the common man. Time passed and we were happy. Then a few years ago in a burst of misbegotten nostalgia, the wide-mouths were abruptly retired. In its place came the impractical, old-fashioned narrow-necks. Darkness had slipped over the sun.

So when Stella asked if I needed help, I had already had my fill of the jar and was going to change it. I began going through the kitchen opening and closing drawers looking for a wide-mouth Mason jar I knew we had. The tomato slices might get limp on the cutting board and the bunny bread dry on the dish, but I was going to find that elusive jar and transfer the rest of the mayonnaise into it. I went out in the garage and slammed the door. I knew of some in the attic.

When I returned, having finally found a jar, Stella had made the sandwich, cut it neatly in two and was transferring the remaining mayonnaise into a jar that she had "found in one of the drawers."

Not only that, but she was transferring a brand new bottle of mayonnaise into the jar as well.

"See," she said sweetly,

"now you won't have any more trouble."

I got some sun tea from the refrigerator and taking the plate went out on the porch and ate my tomato sandwich.

For some reason, it didn't taste as good.

Pets

animals have been (and still often are) kept by people to fulfill these very basic human traits. But it is probably our need to nurture and socialize that was, and continues to be, our primary impetus for having pets. The very word "pet" gives us a clue, and we refer to our pets as our "babies" or "kids". We have even altered physical characteristics in domestic animals to make them appear more infantile, with smaller size, rounder eye and head shapes, and we've selectively bred for more docile, submissive temperaments.

Pets fill an essential role in our lives, and as we learn more about the relationship between people and animals, we realize just how significant the role of pets is to humans. We know pets are good for us, physically and mentally. Children who are raised with pets can develop more empathy and curiosity about the world around them, as well as learn valuable lessons about caring and responsibility. Pets can ease our loneliness, soothe our pain, and help us heal. They make us laugh, they love us when nobody else seems to, and they make us feel needed and important.

Bay High Interact Guest Speakers at Rotary Conference

In May, Vickie Walsh, District 6840 Interact Club Sponsor and student interactors and District 6840 Officers were guest speakers at the 47th Annual Rotary District 6840 Conference at the Grand Casino Oaks Hotel. Ms. Walsh, who is also the faculty sponsor of Bay High School's Interact Club, addressed Rotarians about the progress of Interact in District 6840 and provided tips and suggestions on how to link the Interact Clubs in our high schools to the sponsoring Rotary Clubs. She also informed them of the school participation and competition results at the 2004 District 6840 Interact Convention. Bay High School Students, Heather Ladner, Klet Le, and Lorna Stanton were also on hand and discussed issues that would strengthen Interact/Rotary relations, lead to interactors becoming Rotectors at the college level, and eventually Rotarians in the future.

TONI ROSARY SHARON JUDIE

Toni Rosary Sharon

Absolute Perfection Hair & Nail Salon

Rosary of Absolute Perfection states "I don't believe there is such a thing as a bad hairdresser. There are however, hairdressers that are bad listeners and bad question askers." Regarding the staff at Absolute Perfection, education is priority and a way of life. It is what makes a hairdresser successful; it comes from learning what the client wants and teaching the client how to style their hair at home. This may sound simple and not very original but the truth is that this type of education often gets overlooked in day-to-day salon life. It is what makes a great salon and a great stylist. Using a well-honed, forward focused consultation, the team at Absolute Perfection Hair & Nail Salon learns exactly what their clients want... even if the client is not exactly sure themselves.

The interview is an invaluable tool and has evolved into a general practice for all new clients. It's all about the client's reaction, their body language and the after thought. Rosary stated "To ensure my clients are happy with their look, we learn as much as we can about them, their wants, desires, lifestyle, individual taste and also the amount of effort they are willing to invest in a cut, style and their perception of how their hair behaves. This is also a great opportunity to break down a few barriers and get to the heart of what's important to the person sitting in front of me. I like to find out about their best and worst salon experiences, and for my clients who want color, what was their best color, worst color, favorite color and to find out if they are happy with their present color."

It doesn't stop there! The stylists at Absolute Perfection keep listening. When a client returns to the salon they find out what the client liked most, least and what adjustments to make to allow for the client's total satisfaction.

Rosary summed it up by saying, "When our clients are happy, they remember us in a positive way. That is after all, why we feel we have a successful business and happy hair and nail clientele."

How can we catch each other's back?

My friend Vero recounts the story of a very strange encounter which took place about a year ago. A young man with a rather wild look accosted him and asked whether he was the one who stood every day on the corner of Rochelave and Allen Streets buying crack.

Completely taken aback, Vero recovered enough to respond: "No indeed! I neither use nor sell crack! There must be someone out there who looks like me! I would never dream of getting mixed up in that drug traffic kind of thing!"

"You have to be kidding!" he said, squinting. "I could swear that you are the crack man who stands on that corner every day, buying from any dealer who comes to him. I have never been fooled like this in my life in trying to identify a frequent crack user."

Reluctantly, repeatedly looking behind him, trying hard to reassure himself that Vero was not the crack man whom he was accustomed to seeing on the usual corner, the man slowly walked away, still questioning his deceived, lying eyes in sheer disbelief.

Vero could not wait to talk to his brothers about the strange encounter. His three brothers tended to blow off the whole matter as something of little consequence. They simply dismissed the peculiar man as just another weirdo in the grand mix of the city.

"I don't know about that," Vero observed quietly. "I have severe doubts that this guy is just another street person who causes harm only to himself."

There is something more than just a weird disposition about this guy. He has serious mental issues. In fact, I think his mind is twisted enough to make him dangerous to everyone around him.

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

From time to time, Vero would bump into the man who, as it turned out later, was a transient living from house to house alone or with some woman. Whenever he and Vero encountered one another, both expressed surprise, especially the strange man who would shake his head and try one more time to understand that Vero was not the crack man.

On a particular day, when one of Vero's brothers had gone shopping and was loading groceries into the house, the man happened upon the scene and offered a hand to help with the unloading. As he ferried a share of the groceries, he inquired about Vero and was nonetheless still confused about Vero's identity, one of the enduring enigmas in his life.

The man's helpfulness in carrying some of the groceries inside was further evidence to Vero's brothers that he was hardly more than a homeless person trying to make his way through life. Against all the protests of Vero, the brothers made the observation that crazy people are too separated from reality to help others in their time of need.

"Maybe he's not completely crazy," Vero returned, "but his confused state of mind is so unstable and so weird that he has an air of distrust and danger about him. I have the overwhelming feeling that I can't be safe near him without someone to catch my back."

Almost a year later, two blocks from St. Anthony's Church at 1380 West 5th, the first of an ordinary morning was shattered by shouts and screams intermingled with the slashing of a knife.

Dorelli Watts, an 89-year-old great-grandmother lay dying as her 62-year-old daughter, Ina Ger, retired teacher, principal and community activist, made the scene.

Unthinkably, a man hurrying out of the house shot her in the torso, turned and shot her again, and while she lay prone, put another bullet into her head. Inconceivably, the man set an incendiary in the house, then stood to watch the house burn and firemen scampers.

Already aghast at the numerous murders in various areas of the city, the townspeople were further outraged and saddened by the cold-blooded killing of an aged woman and her daughter in the shadows of a New Orleans church. Witnesses were urgently sought and a couple of them did help to produce a composite drawing of the perpetrator.

It so happened later that day that a man was arrested in the ninth ward for public drunkenness and disturbance. As a fearful, sickening funk hung over the neighborhood, a feverish manhunt got underway with police agents, composite sketch in hand, combing the environs. But jail talk revealed to the police that the arrested man was their suspect.

"They got him!" Vero told me. "And he was the same strange man whom I had encountered a year ago and who popped up now and again on occasion. Would you believe he was living with a woman in a house just two blocks away? Unbeknown to themselves, the police had already jailed him the same day after that ninth ward arrest."

"You could have knocked me over with a feather. And to think hardly anyone thought he might be a danger to our neighborhood. I kept telling my brothers he was dangerous. It goes to show you no one knows how many people walking around us are emotional and mental time bombs who have lethal issues in their lives."

The scariest part of Vero's encounter and the subsequent story is that it is not at all extraordinary except in the way it ultimately played out. Street characters of that kind, and some who are not street people, are almost a dime a dozen. They are everywhere.

Our problem is sifting them in the winds of discernment to separate the chaff from the wheat, the dangerously mentally ill from the merely sick who need help. How and where do we even begin to single out suspects and appraise them without being obnoxious?

To our dismay, as we have witnessed on televised, high-profile murder cases, even professional psychologists and psychiatrists, who are introduced as experts to discern the mental condition of potential murderers, often have sharply opposing opinions about the case at hand. What chance, then, do laypersons have of recognizing dangerous insanity?

"I had nothing else to go on but intuition," mused Vero, "which is highly developed in me. Generally, I am able to trust my intuitions. I felt sure he was a dangerous man."

So who is catching our back? In this issue, scarcely anyone, unless we have people like Vero around who can give us the extra dimension of intuition. And can most of us catch each other's back? Yes, but only with a lot of prayer, understanding of mental illness and addiction, alertness in our families and communities, and spiritual discernment.

Witnesses welcome all in Biloxi to 'Walk With God'

In a year where religious themes and the subject of God have caught the attention of the public, Jehovah's Witnesses will present a series of more than 200 conventions in the United States that will center on the theme "Walk With God." The entire program will be based on the Scriptures and will offer encouragement to sincere individuals who are troubled by recent world events and declining moral values. Locally, the three-day event will take place at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum on July 30-August 1, then again on August 6-8.

In view of the current spotlight on the role of religion in world affairs, the Witnesses will make clear to all in the Biloxi facility how true Christians should conduct themselves in a world of changing values. An estimated 15,000 people of all ages, races, and backgrounds will hear thought-provoking talks and interviews that will encourage all to desire to walk with God. "This year's program will feature important information for families," states

Steve Cunningham, one of the local convention coordinators. "We invite people of all faiths, including those with no religious affiliation, to attend this convention and to listen to what the Bible says about meeting life's challenges, marriage, raising children, and living according to God's standards. All of us are deeply affected by the events of our time, and we do need guidance."

The first day of the convention will feature the Keynote Address, "Walk With God in Turbulent Times." The second day will feature an immersion (baptism) ceremony with the talk "Walking With Jehovah 'By Appointment.'" The final talk that day, "Keep on the Watch: The Hour of Judgment Has Drawn Near," will scrutinize current events in the light of the Bible and reveal their meaning. The third day will feature an enactment of Christian activity in the first century, with participants in period dress.

Jehovah's Witnesses are active in 235 lands and number more than 6,400,000 worldwide.

The "Word" for the Week

Man's Immediate Need

A lot of people want to know what the future holds. They practice astrology and read the daily horoscope. Other folks are asking why we are here and why the world is here. To find some purpose and meaning to life they are looking for a valid interpretation of life.

They are looking for an authority to give them direction. In the beginning, God gave the first man and woman, the kind of direction and purpose for living that men and women are looking for today. God also gave Adam and Eve a glimpse into the future. How did God do this? God spoke to Adam and Eve. God gave them His word. First of all, God outlined their duties in the world He had created. God said, "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it; and rule over every living thing that moves on the earth" (Genesis 1:28). In other words, God gave Adam and Eve the privilege of ruling this world for Him. Their goal was to build a society in this world that would honor and glorify God. God also told Adam and Eve, "From any tree of the garden you may eat freely; but from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you shall not eat, for in the day you eat from it you shall surely die" (Genesis 2:16-17). This was all our first parents needed to know about the future: obey God and live. You see, God spoke to Adam and Eve. God gave them His word. Did you know God has also spoken to you? He has! God has spoken to you through His word found in the Bible. Today, God's word in the Bible gives you the direction you need. It also tells you all you need to know about the future.

Funnyman Don Rickles teams up with the nation's Susan Lucci at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis in Aug.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Don Rickles is one of the 20th Century's most famous funnymen. Now you can chuckle along with him and special guest, "All My Children's" Susan Lucci at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Friday and Saturday, August 13 & 14 at 9 p.m. Tickets may be purchased for $19.95, $24.95 and $29.95 through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster Outlet.

For almost 40 years, Don Rickles, 77, has appeared in top showrooms in Atlantic City, Reno, Lake Tahoe and Las Vegas. He is regarded among the world's top entertainers is highly visible on TV, as well as in motion pictures, including appearances in Universal Pictures' "Casino," and the now cult classic, "Kelly's Heroes." He is also heard in the animated mega-hits "Toy Story" and "Toy Story 2." Additionally, he has starred in live stage productions and, along the way, has had two best-selling comedy albums.

The New York City native got his start after graduating from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York where he frequently received rave reviews for his acting ability. His "insult" comedy style just happened. Two years after his discharge from the U.S. Navy in 1946, he was working in nightclubs. Never a great joke teller in the traditional sense, Rickles suddenly found himself talking directly to the audience and throwing "off the cuff" lines at them. The laughs came and the rest, as they say, is history.

In 1957 at a small Hollywood nightclub, Rickles' career took an unexpected turn. One night, Frank Sinatra wandered in Rickles, still "unknown" eyed Sinatra and said, just saw your movie, "The Pride and the Passion" and I want to tell you, the cannon was great." And "Make yourself at home, Frank. Hit somebody." Sinatra doubled over with laughter and became one of Rickles' biggest boosters among Hollywood celebrities. Rickles soon became the "in" comic among the Hollywood stars, who flocked to his nightclub engagements to become the targets of his "insults."

Rickles believes his breakthrough performance came on the night of October 7, 1955, during his first appearance on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show." His freewheeling performance that night became the talk of the show business industry and caused nationwide comment among press and public.

His next big break occurred during the summer of 1967. He was signed to appear on "The Dean Martin Show" where he scored a major success. Immediately after taping his first appearance on "The Dean Martin Show," Rickles was signed for a second guest shot on that program. Celebrities were invited to sit in the audience to become the targets of Rickles' "insults." Rickles did not know as he walked on stage who he'd be confronting. Among others he faced that night were Danny Thomas, Jackie Cooper, Bob Newhart, Lena Horne, Dean Martin, Ernest Borgnine, Don Adams, Ricardo Montalban and Pat Boone.

He proceeded to ad-lib for one hour (eventually edited down to 20 minutes for the show). For weeks afterwards, people throughout the country repeated Rickles' lines. Particularly memorable was his remark as Bob Hope walked into the studio and took a seat. It was during the Vietnam War, Rickles snapped, "What's Bob Hope doing here? Is the war over?"

Meanwhile, the public was discovering that behind Rickles' sharp barbs was deep affection and love for those whom he seemed to be taunting.

"If I were to insult people and mean it, that wouldn't be funny," Rickles told an interviewer. "There is a difference between an actual insult and just having fun."

Rickles and his wife Barbara live in the Los Angeles area. They have a daughter, Mindy, a son, Lawrence, and are also proud grandparents.

Special guest star, Susan Lucci, has arguably become the most famous face in daytime television history. Lucci has left audiences spellbound for years as the sexy, sassy, beautiful "woman you love to hate," Eric Kane on ABC's "All My Children." In May 1999, all of America stood and cheered when Lucci won the Emmy Award for "Best Actress" at last. It was a historic moment not only for Lucci, but for all of television. She continues to be nominated and awarded industry honors for her talent, a testament to her dedication to the craft and her passion for the work. Recently, VH1 named her one of their "200 Top Icons of All Time."

Lucci has parlayed her extraordinary skills as an actress and performer into a successful and colorful career as a television star and cabaret. For the past three years, Susan's sensational nightclub performances have dazzled audiences as she's sold out audiences and opened for the likes of Regis Philbin. She's also performed on Broadway in the starring role of Annie Oakley in "Annie Get Your Gun."

Don't miss the hilarious comedic and vocal stylings of Don Rickles and Susan Lucci at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis. Must be 21 to attend.

Anna Friel goes American

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

She was born in Northwest England in 1976, but Anna Friel of Fox's Tuesday drama "The Jury" says, "I'm an Irish girl. I'm from Donegal. Go on the Internet, and you'll find out. I'm Northern English and Irish, but I was brought up in the two places."

This varied background came in handy with her "Jury" role of defense attorney Megan Delaney, a well-traveled Irish-American.

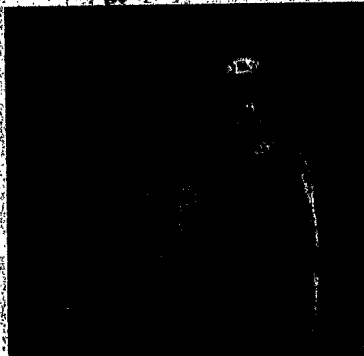

"She's the daughter of a diplomat," Friel says, "so a lot of money. She was a state department brat. She went from Dublin to Washington, wound up in New York. She went against the whole money aspect and wanted to work in legal aid, because she wanted to fight in American law and have the truth come out for people who don't have the money."

The role also requires Friel to do an American accent. "It is perfect," she says, "and if it's not perfect, I'll slit my throat. When I go on set, I will stay with it the entire day. I'm an American girl, so my inflections, my intonations, my expression, it's all American - and it's very different. It's not just an accent. An accent comes from a place."

"My jaw aches at the end of the day. My face looks different as an American." An earlier episode of "The Jury" guest-starred British actor Eamonn Walker, who starred in HBO's prison drama "Oz," the previous series from "Jury" producer Tom Fontana (where, incidentally, he also did an American accent).

"He went, 'Anna!' sounding all English," Friel recalls, "and I said, 'You cannot be English. I cannot hear that accent right now. I'm an American.' He goes, 'Oh, my God!'"

Friel has had a busy film career, with leading men ranging from Ewan McGregor ("Rogue Trader") and Simon Baker ("Sunset Strip"), to Paul Walker and Gerard Butler (the recent "Timeline").

Anna Friel

"I've had great leading men," she says. "I've had a great time."

Friel admits to being "scared s---less" at signing a seven-year contract for an American TV series, and was finally won over by her respect for Fontana and partner Barry Levinson (who also plays the judge in "The Jury"), with whom she had worked on the movie "Everlasting Peace."

She's currently pondering a move to New York ("The Jury" films across the Hudson River in New Jersey). "I love New York," she says. "In London, I've never really gone to a cat on my own and people-watched. It wouldn't be as interesting."

Birthplace: Rochdale, Lancashire, England, on the 12th of July, making her a changeable Cancer.

Three years later, Friel began on stage, with the Oldham Theatre Workshop before moving to London, doing contemporary drama ("Fields of Gold"), period pieces ("Dickens", "Our Mutual Friend", the medieval "Cadaver") and soaps ("Brookside", "Emmerdale Farm", "Coronation Street"). She then moved to movies and later moved back to theater, including a stint on Broadway in Patrick Marber's "Closer" with Claran Hinds, Rupert Graves, and Natasha Richardson (for which she won a Drama Desk Award for best supporting actress).

An old 'Mystery!' favorite returns in 'Foyle's War II'

By John Crook
© Zap2it

When "Foyle's War" first aired as a four-part miniseries on PBS' "Masterpiece Theatre" in February 2003, viewers were instantly captivated by the engrossing cases confronting Detective Chief Inspector Christopher Foyle (Michael Kitchen) in an England torn apart by World War II.

Now, Foyle is back on the case with four new episodes, this time on "Mystery!" starting Sunday, July 18 (check local listings). In addition to Kitchen, other returning key characters include Anthony Howell as injured Sgt. Paul Milner, the delightfully named Honeysuckle Weeks as Foyle's equally charming driver, Samantha "Sam" Stewart, and Julian Ovenden as Andrew, the handsome RAF pilot son kept at arm's length by the emotionally reclusive DCI Foyle.

The four new episodes follow the morally upright Foyle as he sadly crosses paths with countrymen who are not at all behaving nobly during the trying times facing England. Each two-hour episode works as both a satisfying mystery as well as a visual time capsule capturing the restricted living conditions faced by the wartime British.

"We were delighted that so many viewers warmed to Foyle's personal crusade to fight crime on the home front," says producer Jill Green. "The Second World War evokes deep-felt emotions, and 'Foyle's War' clearly struck a chord both (in England) and around the world."

"Our new series is set in 1940, with Foyle, Sam and Milner investigating seemingly minor crimes... while an epic drama is unfolding on the world stage. But the cases soon lead them down dark and dangerous paths, and Foyle finds his quest for morality tested to the limit."

Family drama 'The Days' gets a chance to shine on ABC

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Somebody up there must like "The Days."

Once rejected by ABC for a spot on its fall schedule, the family drama starts a summer run on the same network Sunday, July 18, thanks to an unusual new production deal.

Booked for a six-week test run, "The Days" is a bold attempt by creator John Scott Shepherd ("Life or Something Like It") and executive producers Mike Tollin and Brian Robbins ("Smallville," "One Tree Hill") to revisit a series format that has been all but abandoned by the Big Four networks: a show with a contemporary, two-parent family at its center. That notion may sound shockingly retro to some network programmers, but Shepherd says he thinks the format still has a lot of unexplored territory to offer.

"You know, between '7th Heaven' and 'American Beauty' there's quite a bit of space, and we're trying to stake a claim to part of it in terms of how we show real life," he says. "We deal with flawed but loving family members who are not perfect, as well as an imperfect marriage. The parents on our show genuinely want to do right by their kids, but they also have their own lives. It's what we're calling the contemporary traditional family, which we've almost never seen on TV where you have two parents on a first marriage with multiple kids."

"We're pushing the edges here in many respects and there are a lot of red flags that normally could be going up, but everyone is saying, 'No, this is the show we want to do.'"

When we first meet them, the Days of Philadelphia are rushing through a typically chaotic breakfast en route to their tension-packed weekday routines, unaware of the radical life changes about to confront them.

Dad Jack Day (David Newsom, "Judging Amy") faces another soul-sucking day as a corporate lawyer at a pharmaceutical firm, where his chief duty seems to be sticking it to the little guy. Mom Abby Day (Marguerite MacIntyre, "The Shield") is the recently promoted creative director of an advertising agency, thanks to her new campaign for Hank & Betty's Coffee outlets.

If only time permitted, both would love more time with their children, who are facing major challenges of their own.

Child prodigy Nathan (Zach Maurer, "Without a Trace"), 9, aced his classwork in an accelerated program for gifted students, yet he suffers from crippling panic attacks. Cooper (newcomer Evan Peters), 15, is a promising writer (think brooding John-Boy Walton with attitude) and loner who walks through his high-school routine invisible to the popular kids around him. The resident observer of his family - "I am SO gonna be on 'Oprah,'" he tells himself as he regards the craziness around him - at the moment he's wondering why his golden girl sister, 17-year-old Natalie (newcomer Laura Ramsey), is throwing up in the mornings.

"This show is about five agendas under one roof, and I don't think I've ever seen that honestly reflected on any screen," Shepherd says. "It's usually either very idealized or melodramatic or really tragic and dark in a way that I can't relate to."

"Having grown up in Middle America, I certainly didn't know the people in 'American Beauty,' nor did I know the people in '7th Heaven,' but I did know the people who live in that big space in between, people who are funny and sad. Non-traditional TV families, like the one in 'Gilmore Girls,' which I really like, can have an edge, but for some reason traditional families have either had to be funny or tragic."

Laura Ramsey and Zach Maurer star as siblings Cooper, Natalie and Nathan Day in "The Days," which premieres Sunday at 9 p.m. on ABC.

Although Shepherd, Tollin and Robbins say they kept getting assurances "The Days" was a shoo-in for a slot on ABC's fall schedule, at the last minute the network passed on the series.

"ABC had been talking of really targeting family shows like ours, but then they didn't really pick up any shows like 'The Days' for fall," Robbins says.

Enter MindShare North America, a media investment management firm whose director of programming, Peter Tortorici, is a former CBS programming executive. Tortorici struck a deal for MindShare to take on the production role normally filled by a studio and secured a six-episode order from ABC.

Orbach will return in new 'L&O' series

By Taylor Michaels

Q ■ Is Jerry Orbach really leaving "Law & Order" as the final episode seemed to indicate, or will he be back? -Barbara Kane via e-mail.

A ■ Yes, Orbach, 68, has left the original "Law & Order" after 12 years on the hit NBC series.

From a business standpoint, series executive producer Dick Wolf is launching a fourth scripted "Law & Order" franchise next season called "Law & Order: Trial by Jury," where Orbach will be a principal cast member - a smart move to launch a new series with a beloved character and actor already on board.

And, within the constraints of good storytelling, Wolf has tried to keep his various "Law & Order" series anchored in the world of reality, which necessitated moving Detective Briscoe off his active-duty beat with Detective Green (Jesse L. Martin).

Jerry Orbach

(Briscoe) is three years beyond mandatory retirement age of the NYPD," Wolf recently told Entertainment Weekly. "The transfer (to the new series) works because the DA's office in New York actually has a squad of detectives composed of both active-duty and retired detectives."

We have no confirmed reports of who will be joining Orbach on the midseason series, but such heavyweights as Candice Bergen ("Murphy Brown") and John Mahoney ("Frasier") have been in talks with Wolf.

Q ■ My girlfriend insists that the police captain on "Monk" played the serial killer in "Silence of the Lambs." I say she is way off. Right? -Rick Cohen, Boulder, Col.

A ■ Wrong. Ted Levine, the versatile 36-year-old character actor who plays Capt. Leland Stottlemeyer on "Monk" and has a key role in the upcoming movie remake of "The Manchurian Candidate," terrified moviegoers as Jame "Buffalo Bill" Gumb in the Oscar-winning "Silence of the Lambs."

An 'Entourage' sets out to navigate Hollywood on HBO

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

To some, it's a group. To others, it's a posse. But in showbiz terms, it's an entourage.

The complexities of fame often rub off on people who stay close to celebrities, a phenomenon Mark Wahlberg knows well. The star of movies like "Boogie Nights," "The Perfect Storm" and the remakes of "Planet of the Apes" and "The Italian Job" brings the inner workings of Hollywood to series television as executive producer of "Entourage," a cynical-and-proud-of-it HBO comedy premiering Sunday, July 18.

Wahlberg has a cameo in the debut episode, but the focus is on four buddies who have migrated West from Queens, N.Y. Vince (Adrian Grenier, "Drive Me Crazy") is an actor deemed the next big thing. Usually within his reach are his half-brother Drama (Kevin Dillon, "Platoon") and their pals Eric and Turtle (Kevin Connolly, Jerry Ferrara). As the foursome adjusts to Tinseltown's fast pace and frantic deal-making, Vince's take-charge agent (Jeremy Piven, "Cupid") exerts his influence—often to Eric's annoyance.

In the style of HBO's previous "K-Street" and "The Larry Sanders Show," personalities often turn up as themselves in "Entourage," with Jessica Alba ("Dark Angel"), Luke Wilson ("Legally Blonde") and talk show host Jimmy Kimmel featured in early episodes. Debi Mazar ("L.A. Law"), Samia Armstrong ("The O.C.") and Monica Keena ("Freddie vs. Jason") have supporting roles in the show created and co-produced by former "Life With Bonnie" staff writer Doug Ellin.

"Everybody I've encountered in this business, including the music business where I got my start (as rapper Marky Mark), has their own kind of crew around them," Wahlberg says. "I've certainly had mine, and the three guys (Vince's pals) in the series are based on guys who have been with me for pretty much most of my career. In my case, one of them is a bald, fiftyish Jewish guy, but HBO didn't want to go with that exact type. The Vince character, meanwhile, is someone we felt would be believable in the position he's in."

Sometimes, the term "entourage" is used to mock stars who surround themselves with such loyalists. However, Wahlberg knows the positive side: "You work with different hair people and makeup people when you're making movies, but you want to be comfortable with who you're surrounded by all the time. Some people keep others around them who aren't necessary, but for the most part, my guys have always filled the roles they were meant to."

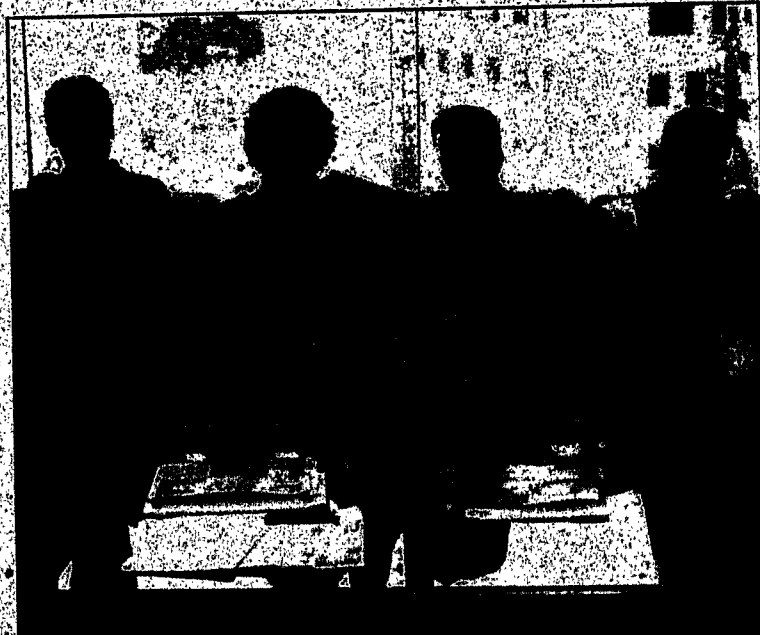

Also seen in Woody Allen's movie "Celebrity," central "Entourage" star Grenier is working some of his own background into the series. "As an actor, you always draw from your own experiences," he reasons, "so I've been able to bring some fun, interesting stuff to my character. He's close to me on one hand, and on the other hand, he is just a character. One of the joys of working on a show like this is that the writers accept your input and feedback. They've incorporated the stories I've told them in one way or another, so the scripts become very real."

Grenier is coming to the home screen with his eyes open wide, not only has he not acted much in television, he barely watches it. "Honestly, it was never something I wanted to get into," he says. "I've just enjoyed doing movies so much, but I've had a great experience on this show so far. It's the most fun I've had on any project, simply by the nature of what the show is. We've been hired to enjoy our lives while the characters are enjoying their lives... and that is a treat, to say the least."

A co-star of the forthcoming movie version of the stage hit "Tony n' Tina's Wedding," Grenier reports his own entourage is about 25 people bigger than Vince's on the show. If we're lucky enough to come back next year, I'm sure his entourage will expand as the story does. Everybody has his or her own little entourage, but they're called "friends" until you become famous. If you're nice enough and you recognize you're no better than your friends and you start making money, hopefully you kick some of it back to the people you love."

A fan of "The Larry Sanders Show," Wahlberg has cashed in some chips to get well-known friends to come play on "Entourage." He muses he was happy to "steal some stuff" from Garry Shandling's talk-show satire, but he adds, Kevin Connolly, Adrian Grenier, Kevin Dillon and Jerry Ferrara (from left) play friends from the East Coast who try to adjust to life in Hollywood as the HBO comedy series "Entourage" premieres Sunday at 9 p.m.

"We thought it would probably take us a full season on the air to catch on and get people involved. Once people saw the pilot, which began circulating around town (Hollywood), they thought the show would be a smart, great opportunity to have a lot of fun."

Wahlberg prides himself on having the backs of "Entourage" guests.

"Being new to this whole producing situation, I'm a lot more concerned with how the talent feels. I want to be sure the people on the show are taken care of, that's from the main cast down to the cameo players. I'm certainly using my personal relationships to get people to jump on board, as is everybody else who's involved in the show."

TNT's 'The Grid' offers balanced portrayal of war on terror

By Sarah Schoolcraft
© Zap2it

TNT tackles the ripped-from-the-headlines issue of international terrorism in "The Grid."

Premiering Monday, July 19, the six-hour limited series stars Julianne Margulies ("ER") and Dylan McDermott ("The Practice"), and follows an elite counterterrorism unit comprised of U.S. and British organizations faced with an impending terrorist threat. Where the series veers from the ordinary is its all-inclusive look at the threat of terrorist acts—including the viewpoint of the terrorists themselves.

A controversial approach, to be sure, but one based on an ideal that director Mikael Salomon (who most recently helmed TNT's hit "Salem's Lot") says influenced him and which he feels will reach viewers in a way that is increasingly necessary. "Like most people, I want to know more about it, and what drives these people to doing these heinous acts," Salomon says.

In telling the stories of Islamic nationalists bent on attacking the United States and London, Salomon and executive producer Tracey Alexander knew they had to present the material as honestly as possible. To that end, they enlisted the knowledge and experience of experts including Islamic law professor Dr. Khaled Abou El Fadl and former U.S. Navy battleship commander Larry Seaquist.

"Larry introduced me to a myriad of wonderful thinkers from the State Department, Pentagon, CIA and National Security Council," Alexander says. The results of the producers' interactions with Dr. Abou El Fadl and Seaquist ultimately provided the series with much more than technical accuracy. "I wanted to depict the terrorists in a very gray light, unlike the black-and-white caricatures you see in the news—unlike the villains," Alexander reveals. While the terrorists' actions are not sympathized with in any way, "The Grid" does attempt to show what motivates the terrorists and the toll their decisions take on their family members.

Joining Margulies and McDermott in the international cast is Bernard Hill ("The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers"), Tom Skerritt ("Path to War"), Piter Marek ("Barbarians: The Battle for Rome"), Jemma Redgrave ("Howards' End") and James Remar ("Sex and the City").

Like the producers and director, Emmy winner Margulies, who returns to TNT after a stunning performance in the network's 2001 miniseries "The Mists of Avalon," felt strongly about portraying as unbiased a story as possible. "What's so beautiful about this script is that it gives many points of view," she says. "You have a chance to understand what war is as opposed to whose side you should be on."

Not so unbiased is Margulies' character in the series, Maren Jackson, the director of counterterrorism for the National Security Council. Jackson is passionate, driven and sometimes overly single-minded in her efforts to fight terrorism. When the deadly poison attack that opens the series occurs, Jackson fights the powers that be to create the task force around which "The Grid" is based. The elite team includes CIA Middle Eastern analyst Raza Michaels (Marek) and FBI Special Agent Max Canary.

Turning in an intense performance as Canary is McDermott. Like Jackson, Canary is devoted to the cause, but as a New Yorker who lost his best friend in the 9-11 attacks, it's personal for him. McDermott dove into his role, gaining as much knowledge as he could before filming began. "I worked with the counterterrorism task force in Los Angeles," he explains. "Watching what they do, their body language and how they behave was so helpful."

A counterterrorism operative (Julianne Margulies) and an FBI agent (Dylan McDermott) investigate a deadly terrorist attack in TNT's limited series "The Grid," premiering Monday at 8 p.m.

'Dream Job' winner Mike Hall debuts on 'SportsCenter'

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

We've seen what "American Idol" has done for the visibility of Kelly Clarkson, Ruben Studdard and Clay Aiken. Next we'll see where "Dream Job" winner Mike Hall's career is headed now that he's beginning his new position as an anchor on ESPN's "SportsCenter" this week. Hall, a native of Glen Ellyn, Ill., who recently graduated with a degree in journalism from the University of Missouri after interning at NBC affiliate KOMU-TV in Columbia, Mo., makes his debut on the overnight edition early Tuesday morning, July 20.

The 22-year-old Hall won a one-year contract with ESPN in March when he beat out Adam Levine, a 21-year-old senior at Stanford, in the final nationwide vote, 60 percent to 40 percent. He then competed in a sports-trivia contest, which gave him the opportunity to increase his salary from its base of $70,000 annually. By answering five questions correctly (including gimmes like the one that asked him to identify the current NBA champion), he was able to bump up his starting pay to $95,000. Not bad coin, considering entry-level journalists typically consider themselves lucky to make a quarter of that amount.

Now, he takes his place in the anchor's chair next to Dan Patrick, Stuart Scott, John Anderson, Scott Van Pelt and other "SportsCenter" mainstays. What happens next is up to him.

"You just have to be yourself," Hall said in a recent interview. "You can't try to be Dan Patrick; you can't try to be Craig Kilborn. You've just got to be who you are and be comfortable enough to come across the camera that way."

Fans can tune in to the second season of "Dream Job" beginning Sept. 21.

Last week, it was some of the PGA Tour's best players who competed in a major event in the British Isles. This week, it's the Champions Tour's turn, as the Senior British Open comes to Royal Portrush Golf Club in Portrush, Northern Ireland, Thursday through Sunday, July 22-25. TNT carries the first two rounds followed by ABC on the weekend.

Tom Watson earned the second major championship of his Champions Tour career last year by edging Carl Mason with a par on the second playoff hole at Turnberry Golf Links in Turnberry, Scotland. His 17-under 263 easily eclipsed Bob Charles' tournament record of 11-under 269 set at the same Turnberry Links in 1989.

Watson defends his title this year against Mason, Ben Crenshaw, Jay Haas, Tom Kite, Sam Torrance, Jerry Pate and Craig Stadler, among others.

In case you haven't had enough of one of baseball's oldest rivalries, Fox will make sure you get your quota with a regional broadcast of the second game of a three-game set between the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees on Saturday, July 24, from Fenway Park.

The Sox had their way with the Bronx Bombers early in the season, winning six of seven games in April to open a 4 1/2 game lead in the AL East. But that was before the Yankees, who imported a number of new faces during the offseason, including Alex Rodriguez, Gary Sheffield, Tom Gordon, Javier Vazquez and Kevin Brown, had a chance to gel. When they did, they became the juggernaut. George Steinbrenner and General Manager Brian Cashman envisioned, in March, building a substantial lead by the end of June.

The Sox, meanwhile, have struggled to a .500 record in May and June, thanks in large part to a porous defense and a starting staff that, after Pedro Martinez and Curt Schilling, has proven to be quite vulnerable. Offense, on the other hand, hasn't been a problem, as Manny Ramirez and David Ortiz are among the league leaders in home runs, and Nomar Garciaparra returned from the disabled list last month.

In a novel twist, ESPN Classic is devoting four hours of programming to what it terms "some of the biggest flops in sports" on Tuesday, July 20. Getting play are Michael Jordan's final professional baseball game as a Birmingham Barons in 1994, the 1998 San Diego Chargers, the 1996 Cincinnati Bengals, Anna Kournikova and Brian Bosworth.

Not making the cut, apparently, were the XFL, the 1993 New York Mets and the Olympic Triplecast in 1992.

"Golf" Sunday, July 18 (ABC, 8 a.m. ET): Prior to Retief Goosen's win in the U.S. Open last month, first-timers seemed to be having their way in majors over the last year and a half. You have to go back to Ernie Els' win in the 2002 British Open to find a major winner who hadn't previously won a Grand Slam event. Will this year's British Open, which takes place at Scotland's Royal Troon Golf Club, revert to form? Today's final round will tell the story.

"MLB Baseball" Sunday, July 18 (ESPN, 6 p.m. ET): With the ESPY Awards on tap this evening, ESPN's "Sunday Night Baseball" becomes "Sunday Early Evening Baseball" for one week when the Diamondbacks host the Dodgers from Phoenix. This four-game series has given Adrian Beltre and the visitors a chance to fatten up at the expense of their downtrodden division foes, who are battling the Rockies for space in the NL West's cellar. Might Arizona's Steve Finley and Randy Johnson be sacrificed soon for younger players?

"Boxing" Saturday, July 24 (HBO, 9:30 p.m. ET): Veteran Arturo Gatti, making his 16th appearance on HBO, puts his WBC super lightweight title on the line against top-ranked challenger Leonard Dorin in a scheduled 12-round bout from Atlantic City, N.J. Gatti (37-6, 28 KOs), known for his brawling tactics, says he will put his boxing skills to use versus Dorin, who is unbeaten in 23 pro bouts. Junior welterweights Francisco Bojardo and Jesse James Leija square off in the opening match.

Movie: The Majestic

The often-maniac Jim Carrey continued his efforts to broaden his screen image in director Frank Darabont's ("The Green Mile") gentle 2001 drama about a screenwriter whose career is impacted by the 1950s Hollywood blacklist. Left amnesiac by a car crash, he then wanders into a town where the locals believe him to be a long-lost war hero. Laurie Holden ("The X-Files") and Martin Landau co-star.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Hook

Peter Pan (Robin Williams) has grown up. Even worse, he has forgotten who he is and from where he came. But the arrival of the villainous Capt. James Hook (Dustin Hoffman), who kidnaps Peter Pan's children, jogs the Lost Boy's memory. In this 1991 Steven Spielberg production based on the story by Sir James M. Barrie, Julia Roberts co-stars as Tinkerbell, and Bob Hoskins portrays the pirate Smee.

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: Sarah, Plain and Tall

A highly memorable Hallmark Hall of Fame offering, this 1991 drama stars Glenn Close as a turn-of-the-century Maine schoolteacher who heads West in response to an ad placed by a widowed farmer (Christopher Walken). He wants a new wife mainly to help him bring up his children (Lexi Randall, Christopher Bell). She ends up making a huge difference in his life, too. Patricia MacLachlan adapted her own book for television.

Thursday

Movie: Rookie of the Year

A 12-year-old boy (Thomas Ian Nicholas) becomes a major-league sensation when an accident renders him a phenomenal pitching arm. Naturally, he helps hurt baseball's hapless Chicago Cubs into the playoffs. Gary Busey, Dan Hedaya and Daniel Stern also star in this 1993 comedy that was Stern's rookie effort as a director.

Saturday

3 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Turner & Hooch

A fastidious detective (Tom Hanks) and a slobbering canine are the Felix and Oscar of this odd-couple comedy. The dog, whose owner was slain by a shady out-of-towner, helps his reluctant new buddy solve both the murder and the money-laundering plot that brought the killer to town. Turner, of course, learns to love Hooch despite all the drool; in fact, he does his share of drooling himself when he meets the local vet (Mare Winningham).

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Chicken Run

Mel Gibson provides the voice of Rocky, a circus rooster whose impressive landing in a British farmyard has captive chicken Ginger (voice of Julia Sawalha) dreaming of freedom. She urges Rocky to teach the flock to fly to freedom, and he agrees — despite not knowing how himself. Eventually, the two lead their fellow poultry into motion in a great escape worthy of the movie of the same name. Miranda Richardson and Jane Horrocks also supply voices.

All My Children

J.R. staged Bees' disappearance, then made a heroic "rescue" while trashing Babe's reputation as a mother. After Jamie told Babe that J.R. gave her the drugs, J.R. planted seeds of doubt in Babe's mind, leading her to call Jamie a liar. J.R. turned the tables by claiming that Jamie drugged Babe. Kendall tried but failed to pay Bobby in exchange for him seducing Greenlee, who is growing closer to Ryan. Danielle convinced Derek to allow her to see Reggie. Palmer agreed to help Edmund uncover the source of the phone call he overheard. Invited to spend the summer in Poland with Lana, Bianca felt that something is keeping her from leaving Pine Valley but didn't know what. Coming: David is ready to take on J.R.

As the World Turns

Craig shot Greel, who made a deathbed confession to Dusty that "Lucy's father" organized the setup. When Wade threatened to spill what Craig had done, Craig got big money out of Sierra to pay him off. Margo was furious to learn that Jessica's baby could be Doc's, assuming that Jessica intends to deceive Ben. Jill went nuts after being rejected and was fired, vowing vengeance on Doc. James continued to play tricks involving Cabot and asked to see Rosanna. Emily and Chris shared an uneasy moment of sexual tension when they were locked in the wine cellar. Coming: James makes his wishes known.

Bold and Beautiful

Brooke and Ridge exchanged vows. After arriving at the wedding reception thanks to Nick's sober friend, Stephanie quickly got into an argument with Brooke that had to be broken up by Ridge and Thorne. Ridge saw Caitlin and Rick share a kiss, then ordered Rick to stay away from Caitlin because their relationship could jeopardize the new youth line. Amber kissed Rick, who was thinking about Caitlin. Nick responded to Felicia's interest until he found out that she is Ridge's sister. Bridget invited Oscar to go to Copenhagen with her if she gets accepted for her internship. Massimo refused to forgive Jackie, who was comforted by Deacon. Coming: Stephanie looks for another way to battle Brooke.

Days of Our Lives

Patrick and Hope's plane was shot down after going into restricted airspace, but they survived and were shocked to find themselves on the Salem prison island. Hope was deliriously happy to be reunited with Alice and Maggie. Meanwhile, Bo refused to give up on finding Hope and acted on his suspicions of Patrick. Jack rescued Jennifer from the cliff but the twosome, in bad shape, passed out. Sam used her key and walked in on Lucas in bed with Manda, resulting in Lucas and Manda breaking up. When Lucas heard Sam crying, his visit led to their reuniting, after they finally admitted their love for one another. Shawn was devastated when Jan told him that Belle and Philip were living together and played him Philip's new voice message. Coming: Julie vows revenge against Bonnie for Hope's "death."

General Hospital

Sam lied to Jason after he saw her embracing a mysterious man, prompting Jason to warn Sonny that Sam is keeping secrets. Confronted by Carly, Sam threatened to leave the country with Jason and "their" baby. While Sonny convinced Ric that he wants Sam brought to justice for murdering her mother, Sam confessed to Jason that she is keeping a secret but can't tell him what it is. Family and friends gathered for a memorial service honoring Lia. Heather became intrigued to learn that Edward is now a widower. George blamed herself when Dillon was unable to make love. Sage later made a play for Dillon. Coming: Sam tells Jason her secret.

Guiding Light

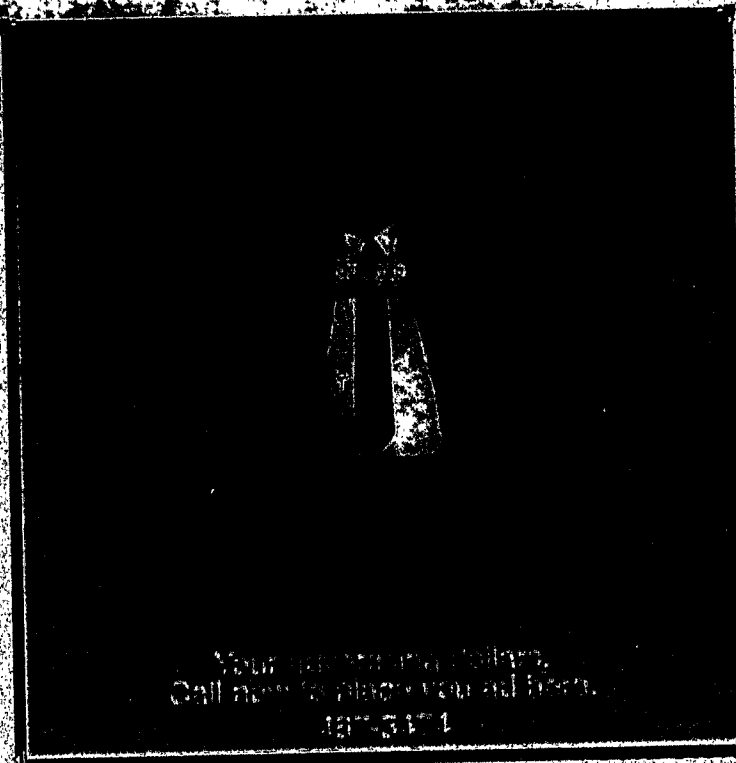

Panicked over Frank's suspicions of her, Alex planted a file in his briefcase, leading to Ross accusing Frank of concealing evidence. Tammy was crushed when Joey asked Lizzie to the summer dance. When Tammy and Joey started to admit how much they miss each other, Lizzie pretended to have been attacked and ran to Joey for help. Despite his continuing attraction to Dinah, Jeffrey ordered her to stop impersonating Cassie, or else. Olivia was trapped when Phillip ordered her to get cozy with Bill, then report back to him everything that Lewis Construction is up to. Coming: Michelle pursues a strange attraction.

One Life to Live

Believing that Ace is her and Todd's son, a delusional Margaret kidnapped the child, but Todd managed to rescue the baby as Margaret was apprehended. Meanwhile, Kevin refused to forgive Kelly and ordered her to leave the mansion, deciding he will sue for full custody of Ace. Thinking that Adriana is avoiding him, and unaware that she had been sent away, River ended up making love with Shannon. Antonio continued to lead Sonia and Tico to believe that he is a corrupt cop. Jessica became disturbed by Tico's warning that Antonio would be lured by the Santi way of life, and asked Antonio to give up his investigation. Coming: Natalie has shocking news for John.

Passions

Sheridan feared that she really did kill Luis' father and rejected Luis, not wanting to bring him anymore pain. Alistair looked on with fiendish delight as Sheridan got into her car, which he had rigged to explode. Miguel desperately tried to reach Paloma when Pilar went into cardiac arrest, but it was Martin who answered the phone. Unable to deal with her feelings for Fox, Whitney accused him of using her. Coming: Luis and Sheridan have a shocking encounter.

Young and Restless

Sharon was arrested after the sheet Frank's body was wrapped in revealed her name written in blood. Sharon went against Michael's advice and told Detective Weber the whole truth about Cameron, who naturally replied that Sharon is lying. Dru felt empathy toward Devon, believing he gets into trouble because he has no family, but Neil, believing Dru wants Devon to move in with them, said no. Brittany pleaded with Raul not to leave town, but his mind was made up. Later, Bobby surprised Brittany with an engagement ring. The police were called when a child's skeleton was unearthed at the construction site. Coming: Daniel's decision has a big effect on Phyllis and Damon.

Soap Talk

Erica Kane shares the Enchantment

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

Weave a web of Enchantment by wearing the latest fragrance from Erica Kane's (Susan Lucci) cosmetic company.

ABC Daytime will launch the newest perfume from "All My Children's" fictional cosmetic company in conjunction with Wal-Mart stores nationwide. The amber-based scent will be available in September, but its creation, including strategic decisions such as bottle design and marketing, will be part of this summer's story line.

Erica may have turned the reigns of Enchantment over to Kendall (Alicia Minshew), Ryan (Cameron Mathison) and Greenlee (Rebecca Budig), but it is a sure bet she will find a way to make her mark on the soon-to-be-released fragrance.

Speaking of ABC, the alphabet network will be sending its daytime stars out on the road this summer to meet the fans. Heather Tom (Kelly Buchanan, "One Live to Live"), Greg Vaughan (Lucky Spencer, "General Hospital"), Kathy Brier (Marcie Walsh, "One Live to Live") and Aiden Turner (Aidan Devane, "All My Children") will be appearing July 24 at the Country Music Hall of Fame in Nashville, Tenn. Bobbie Eakes (Krystal Carey, "All My Children") will host the event.

Look for former "America's Next Top Model" wannabes to guest on two CBS soaps. Robin Manning from the first season, stops by "The Young and the Restless" July 13 as a woman touring the refurbished rec center. Then the second season's Mercedes Yvette (formerly Scelba-Shorte) and Catie Anderson pop up on "The Bold and the Beautiful" as "what else?" models in a fashion show. Their scheduled airdates are July 27, 28 and Aug. 3.

Dear Paulette: I was watching the Daytime Emmy Awards and I thought I heard Alison Sweeney (Sami, "Days of Our Lives") say that "Guiding Light" has been on for 66 or 67 years. Is that true? If not, how many? -Mike from Wisconsin

Dear Reader: "GL" is 67 years old if you combine its run on radio with its 52 years on television. "According to Guiding Light: The Complete Family Album," written by Julie Poll, the soap opera began in 1937 as a 15-minute radio show, making the transition to TV in 1952.

Law & Order

A homeless man's death proves to involve more than the hit-and-run accident initially suspected in "Darwinian." Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin)

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

1421: The Year China Discovered America?

Christopher Columbus has been credited as the first foreigner to reach the New World — but was he actually beaten to the punch? 9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

The Ultimate Love Test

The partners in each of the remaining couples must determine whether they still have a future together in the season finale of this unscripted series. After this hour, they'll wonder no more — one way or the other.

7 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Overboard

Gary Marshall directed this 1987 comedy about an heiress who throws her carpenter overboard rather than pay him for work he did on her yacht. When she loses her memory, he gets revenge by convincing her they are married. Goldie Hawn, Katherine Helmond, Kurt Russell, Edward Herrmann and Roddy McDowall star.

7 p.m. on TNT

Movie: The Fifth Element

Bruce Willis stars in this French-made futuristic 1997 action film. After a prologue about a set of five totems discovered in 1914, the action leaps forward 300 years. With a planet headed for impact with Earth, an evil overlord (Gary Oldman) prepares to battle a high priest (Ian Holm) with knowledge of the totems. Willis, a flying-taxi driver, lends his fists to the fray. Milla Jovovich and Luke Perry also star.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Tru Calling

Tru (Eliza Dushku) fears she has lost her special gift when she can't return to the previous day to change events for a newly deceased person in "Two Pair." She eventually does go back in time — but at another victim's request, forcing her to try to save both people in entirely different circumstances. The reasons for Jack's (Jason Priestley) presence become clearer.

8 p.m. on USA

Movie: Mercury Rising

Bruce Willis is back in action in this 1998 tale of pursuit. He plays an FBI maverick protecting an autistic young genius (Miko Hughes) who has managed to break a top-secret government code. That makes the boy the target of sinister agents. Director Harold Becker ("Sea of Love") keeps the cast moving, and the fine music is by John Barry. Alec Baldwin co-stars.

9 p.m. on 19-PBS

Wide Angle

The efforts made over the past decade by female residents of Rwanda to help their country recover from a devastating genocide are detailed in director Gini Reticker's documentary "Ladies First." Whether their success will endure will be determined by a lasting peace remaining between the Hutus and the Tutsis, factions that have been at odds with each other for nearly 50 years.

July 18-24, 2004

Sea Coast Echo

Friday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The Bernie Mac Show

Vanessa (Camille Winbush) clashes with a new neighbor, an argumentative lawyer (guest star Greg Germann, "Ally McBeal") in "Love Thy Nephew." Bernie (Bernie Mac) believes Vanessa is in the wrong until he has his own run-in with the attorney over a tree-house. Wanda's (Kellita Smith) patience with the kids is tested where her cherished car is involved.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

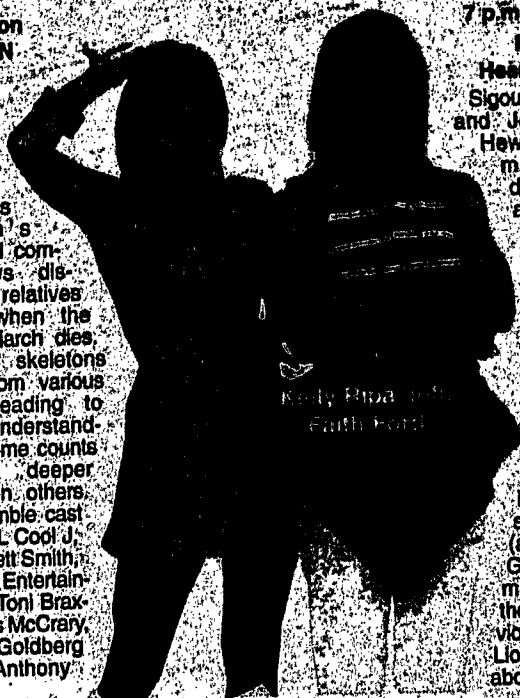

What I Like About You

A car accident lands Vince (Nick Zano) in the hospital, where Holly (Amanda Bynes) visits him — and shares her first kiss with him — in "The Hospital." Although they acknowledge their feelings for each other, they don't want to hurt Henry (Michael McMillan), Val and Lauren (Jennie Garth, Leslie Grossman) compete for a doctor's (guest star Ken Marino) affection.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

Movie: Kingdom Come

Director D. O. U. G. McHenry's ("J.A.S.O.N.'s Linc") 2001 comedy draws disparate relatives together when the family patriarch dies. Many skeletons emerge from various closets leading to deeper understandings on some counts — and deeper chasms on others. The ensemble cast includes LL Cool J, Jada Pinkett Smith, Cedric the Entertainer, singer Toni Braxton, Darius McCrary, Whoopi Goldberg and Anthony Anderson.

7 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Heartbreakers

Sigourney Weaver and Jennifer Love Hewitt star as mother-and-daughter con artists in this 2001 comedy. As skilled as the ladies are at their game, some of their "marks" eventually get wise to them. Weaver's latest target is a lascivious senior citizen (an amusing Gene Hackman), but one of the women's previous victims (Ray Liotta) is unhappy about being bilked.

7 p.m. on TNT

Movie: Rush Hour 2

Jackie Chan and Chris Tucker reteam as police detectives in this 2001 action-comedy sequel, which had the same sort of box-office impact as its hugely successful forerunner. Here, the duo's adventures start in Hong Kong, where their search for those who attacked the American Embassy leads them to a counterfeiting plot. The trail eventually takes them to Las Vegas, where things get even hotter for them.

8 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Paint Your Wagon

Despite the presence of the decidedly nonfuneral Lee Marvin and Clint Eastwood, the Lerner & Loewe stage hit gets appealingly scenic screen treatment in this 1969 version. The actors play partners not only in seeking gold in California, but also in sharing the same woman (Jean Seberg). Polygamy is just one of the unusually adult themes in the musical, which also features Ray Walston and Harve Presnell.

8 p.m. on 13-ABC

Hope & Faith

Hope and Faith (Faith Ford, Kelly Ripa) scheme to replace Charley's (Ted McGinley) Roger Clemens-autographed baseball, accidentally wrecked by Justin (Paulie Litt). In "Charley's Baseball," the sisters pose as journalists to gain access to the baseball great (who plays himself) when he visits Columbus. Former Major Leaguer Willie Randolph and ex-sports-caster-turned-actor Oren Stevens also guest star.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

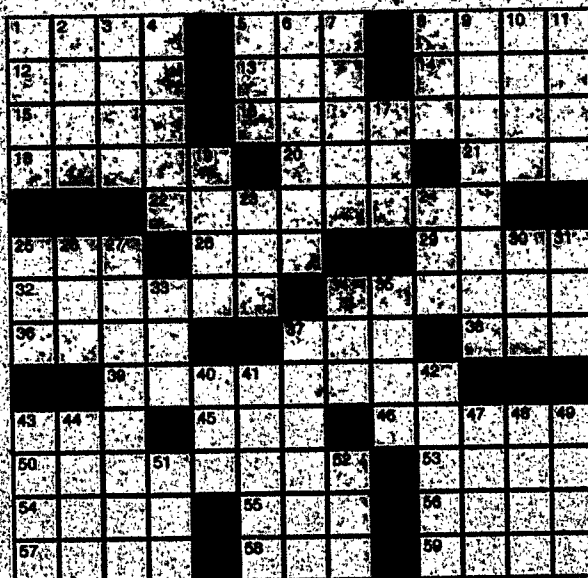

Las Vegas

Time — and success at a blackjack table — is of the essence for a gambler who has a bomb strapped to his chest in "The Big Bang." Nessa and Ed (Marsha Thomason, James Caan) deal with him while Danny (Josh Duhamel) learns that another bomb is inside the hotel. Music star Everlast (who guest stars as himself) arrives to perform a private concert for a group of rich kids.

12 p.m. on TNT NASCAR Racing

David Green returns to New Hampshire International Speedway in Loudon, N.H., the site of one of his three wins last year, to defend his Busch Series New England 200 title.

Green passed a dominant Kevin Harvick, who led 152 of the 200 laps, late in last year's race to pick up his seventh career win. Green had not entered the winner's circle exactly halfway through this season, yet he still stood third overall thanks in part to 11 top-10 finishes.

Bruce Willis and Robin Wright Penn

3:30 p.m. on 6-NBC AVP Volleyball

The Hermosa Beach Open in California gives fans of the AVP Pro Beach Volleyball scene a last look at the circuit's top stars before the Athens Olympics. The women's side of the AVP boasts the world No. 1 team of Kerri Walsh and Misty May, who also happen to be this tourney's defending champions, as well as two-time Olympian Holly McPeak. Today's coverage features the women's final tomorrow; NBC airs the men's final.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Unbreakable

Bruce Willis reunited with M. Night Shyamalan, also his director on "The Sixth Sense," for this 2000 story of the lone survivor of a catastrophic train wreck. Played by Willis, he's deemed to be a walking miracle by others — particularly one man (Samuel L. Jackson, also Willis' co-star in "Die Hard With a Vengeance") who believes his own condition can be explained by the situation. Robin Wright Penn also appears.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Chicken Run

This delightful clay-animation comedy, from the creators of "Wallace & Gromit," had competing moviemakers crying "Fowl!" during the summer of 2000. Mel Gibson lends his voice to Rocky, a circus rooster whose bravura landing in a British farmyard has plucky captive Ginger (voice of Julia Sawalha) urging him to lead her fellow hens in a "Great Egg-scape." Miranda Richardson and Jane Horrocks provide other voices.

8 p.m. on THN

Movie: Diamonds Are Forever

Until he made 1963's aptly titled "Never Say Never Again," Sean Connery vowed that this entertaining, fast-moving 1971 caper would mark his last appearance as James Bond. Here, Agent 007 tracks an international gem-smuggling ring from Amsterdam to Las Vegas. Jill St. John, Lana Wood and Jimmy Dean co-star; Charles Gray plays Bond's archenemy, Blofeld.

8:30 p.m. on HBO

Boxing

Veteran Arturo Gatti, making his 16th appearance on HBO, puts his WBC super lightweight title on the line against top-ranked challenger Leonard Dorin in a scheduled 12-round bout from Atlantic City, N.J. Gatti (37-6, 28 KOs), known for his brawling tactics, says he will put his boxing skills to use tonight versus Dorin, who is unbeaten in 23 pro bouts. Junior welterweights Francisco Bolado and Jesse James Leija square off in the opening match.

(Rankings for each film begin with a "star" rating, "one star" meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent," followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide (the key for which appears below).)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"STARKY & HUTCH": Two of the most famous police-detective partners in TV history are revived by Ben Stiller and Owen Wilson in this affectionately humorous revision. The script, co-written by director Todd Phillips, recalls how David Starky (Stiller) and Ken Hutchinson (Wilson) were paired and established a relationship with street-smart informant Huggy Bear (Snoop Dogg). Vince Vaughn and Juliette Lewis play the villains of the piece; the original Starky and Hutch, Paul Michael Glaser and David Soul, have cameos. DVD extras: theatrical trailer, "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Phillips; deleted scenes; outtakes.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"THE HUMAN STAIN": Although it didn't get the expected attention during its theatrical run, this involving adaptation of a Philip Roth novel boasts a top director (Robert Benton, "Kramer vs. Kramer") and a prestige cast. Anthony Hopkins plays a college professor whose long-kept secret about his identity comes to the fore when he becomes involved with a younger janitor (Nicole Kidman), much to the chagrin of her ex-husband (Ed Harris). Gary Sinise and Jacka Barrett (MTV's "The Real World") co-star.  (R, AS, N, P, V)

"CONFESSIONS OF A TEENAGE DRAMA QUEEN": One of today's most visible young stars, Lindsay Lohan stars in this enjoyable Disney comedy about a teenager who relocates from New York to a New Jersey suburb (she named it "New Jersey") to attend a new school. She meets a boy (Megan Fox) and challenges her to the end of the world. A book group of final concert also comes into the picture. The misadventures. "Adam" (Garcia) ("Coyote Ugly"), Garcia, Ready, and Carol Kane also appear. DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; audio commentary by director Sara Sugarman; screenwriter Gal Parent; and producers Jerry Linder and Robert Shapiro; deleted scenes; music video.  (PG, P)

"DIRTY DANCING: HAVANA NIGHTS": After years of debate over a possible sequel to the musical phenomenon, this prequel - featuring an appearance by original star Patrick Swayze - became the solution. A young American (Romola Garai) moves to Cuba with her family on the eve of that country's revolution, but her mind is more on dancing than on world events, especially after she sees the smooth moves of a pool boy (Diego Luna) at the hotel where she's staying. Sela Ward ("The Day After Tomorrow") plays her mother. DVD extras: theatrical trailer, "making-of" documentary; audio commentary by producers JoAnn Jansen and Sarah Green; music videos.  (PG-13: AS, P)

"THE BIG BOUNCE": Also the source of a 1969 film starring Ryan O'Neal and Leigh Taylor-Young, an Elmore Leonard novel inspired this lighter-toned remake directed by exploitation-movie specialist George Armitage ("Hit Man"). Owen Wilson plays a petty swindler trying to go straight, but is steered back into thievery by the mistress (Sara Foster) of his ex-boss (Gary Sinise), and ends up in the middle of a Hawaiian hotel rivalry. Morgan Freeman, Willie Nelson, Harry Dean Stanton and an especially colorful Charlie Sheen also star. DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; outtakes; "Surfing the Pipeline: Surfing in the Aloha State" featurette.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"HELLBOY": The COMPLETE FIRST SEASON. Remakes producer Mike Carter (who also produced "The X-Files") has also produced a dark, scary, and bloody series. In the pilot episode, which was a preview screening in theaters, Hellboy (Kerry Condon) is a demon who was created by the military. He now works with the secretive Millennium Group, consisting of other ex-law enforcers who use their skills to rid innocent people of the evil among them. Megan Gallagher ("China Beach") plays the Larry Sanders Show) plays Hellboy's wife in the six-DVD, 22-episode set. DVD extras: "making-of" documentaries; audio commentary by Carter and director David Nutter on pilot episode; TV spots; bonus trailers.  (Not rated: AS, P, V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"HELLBOY" (July 27): Intended to wreak havoc on Earth, a misfit (Ron Perlman) joins others who have special powers to protect the planet from evil instead. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"THE WHOLE TEN YARDS" (July 27): Bruce Willis and Matthew Perry reteam in this sequel to save the Willis character's ex-wife (Natalie Henstridge) from abductors.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

Texas-sized sports fan Jamie Foxx hosts ESPY Awards

Jamie Foxx won't ever forget his first brush with a sports star. "My earliest football memory is meeting Robert Newhouse," says actor-comedian Foxx of the former Dallas Cowboys running back. "Right across the street from me were the Scotts. The young kid that was my age kept saying, 'Man, Robert Newhouse is my cousin.' I'd say, 'Man, Robert Newhouse ain't your cousin.' And one day out of nowhere, Robert Newhouse steps out of a van and everybody just passes out. Incredible!"

Foxx, an avid sports fan - especially of those teams in his native Dallas - hosts the "2004 ESPY Awards" for the second consecutive year when it airs from the Kodak Theatre in Hollywood Sunday, July 18.

Taped July 14, the 12th annual presentation pays tribute to the top sports performers and events of the past year, and a fan vote recently conducted on <http://www.espn.com> determined the winners in the 34 categories. Additionally, UNICEF Ambassador and African soccer star George Weah, who put himself at great risk to help his war-torn Liberia, will receive the prestigious Arthur Ashe Courage Award.

Sports and entertainment stars are expected to be in attendance, including tennis star Serena Williams, Denver Nuggets Carmelo Anthony, Boston Red Sox shortstop Nomar Garciaparra, soccer's Mia Hamm, WNBA players Lisa Leslie and Diana Taurasi, New England Patriots coach Bill Belichick, and actors Jim Caviezel and Denzel Washington.

For his part, Foxx is excited to be back at the podium in front of the many athletes that he calls friends. He's been working on several comic bits for the show and sees the recently crowned NBA champion Detroit Pistons as prime fodder. "This year, I'm glad, myself, that the Pistons won the championship because it gives me more to play with," Foxx says. "I mean, the Ben Wallace wig and the Rip Hamilton mask - so it gives a little more fun, and I think that the Detroit Pistons are really, really happy about it."

"With the Rip Hamilton mask, since it looks so much like Anthony Hopkins in 'The Silence of the Lambs,' we're going to poke a little fun with that, and maybe do a little Anthony Hopkins spiel with that. So it should be a lot of fun."

He's also planning on revisiting some skits from last year's show, such as a musical tribute to Williams titled "Can I Be Your Tennis Ball?"

"Oh, she loves it," Foxx says. "I hang out with Serena every so often. For one, I'm a huge fan. My father and I played on a father-son tennis team. So we got a chance to see her at the U.S. Open and all these different things. So she had a great time on it."

Foxx is himself a former athlete. He was the starting quarterback on his high-school team and even considered playing in college. That is, until he got a look at some of the other players. "I'll never forget going to visit a college," he says, "and I see this dude walking up to me, and he says, 'Yo, what's up, man?' I was like, 'Yeah, what's up?' ... And he was like, 'Yo, you wanna come to the college and you gonna play some ball?' And I said, 'Yeah, I'd love to.' I said, 'What do you do?' He said, 'Oh, I play for the college.' He was huge. It was the first time I'd seen calf muscles. He was just big. And I said, 'Well, what position do you play?' And he said, 'Free safety.' And I said, 'Well, I KNOW this is not for me. This is not for me, man.' This dude was 6 feet even, maybe like 195-200 pounds. All muscle. That's a big cat."

He's also had the opportunity to be a sports journalist, interviewing then-Cowboys running back Emmitt Smith for ESPN's 25,000th edition of "SportsCenter." "It was great," Foxx says. "You know, for one, I knew so much about him. I knew him personally and so it was great. This was before he went to the Cardinals, and at that time, I thought I was ushering out a legend, and he was dealing with the effect of trying to break the (career rushing) record and everything like that. So it was a great, great interview, and I just wish he would have ended it right there in Dallas."

Foxx also got to play an athlete on film, as backup quarterback-turned-star Willie Beamen in the 1999 drama "Any Given Sunday." "Any Given Sunday" was a great piece," he says. "To have Oliver Stone at the helm, and you've got Al Pacino, and Jimmy Woods; you've got Cameron Diaz. You have all these great people to work with. And then to have it wrapped in football, which being a Texas boy who played quarterback in high school, it's right up my alley because it gave me a chance to kind of live a dream of playing in the NFL. And it was a choreographed dream."

In addition to being a sports fan, Foxx is musically inclined. A classical pianist, Foxx wrote, produced and performed the theme song to "Any Given Sunday," recorded a hit song, "Slow Jamz," with Twista and Kanye West, and recently portrayed Ray Charles in an upcoming movie on the late blues great's life.

Host Jamie Foxx performs a musical tribute to tennis star Serena Williams on the "2004 ESPY Awards," which airs from the Kodak Theatre in Hollywood Sunday at 8 p.m. on ESPN.
